Col. W. J. Donovan Criticizes Lehman On Budget Economy

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP).—Strenuous day in and around Utica with four or more addresses on the program was the campaign plan today of Col. William J. Donovan, Republican candidate for governor.

Fresh from a rally in New York last night, where he accused his Democratic opponent, Lieutenant Governor Herbert H. Lehman, of insincerity in his advocacy of economy, the Republican candidate continued his attacks.

Breakfast appointment with party leaders and followed by conferences and a circle motor trip to Rome, Oneida and Clinton. Returning to Utica in the afternoon to address women's clubs and other groups, he was to make one of the major addresses of his campaign at the Majestic Theatre in the evening.

The colonel grinned this morning when he was told that a group of Democratic women planned to follow his state tour from now on in motor caravan, remaining one day behind him.

"It's a great compliment," he said.

The candidate, in his speech last night, attacked Governor Roosevelt's budget recommendations, bringing in the lieutenant governor for a share of criticism.

"The 1932 budget with its increased demands is a measure of the sympathy that those officials had for the citizens of the state already suffering from the burden of taxation," he charged. "Governor Roosevelt's own recommendations for the fiscal year 1932-1933 for the executive department alone represents an increase of 33 per cent over his first year's recommendations as governor.

"Did we hear at any time the lieutenant governor of the state criticizing this budget? Have we been told of any act of his which sought to reduce it? The only fair inference is that he must have been an active participant in its making and he must share responsibility for its excesses."

EVANGELINE BOOTH TO VOTE FOR HOOVER

Boston, Oct. 18 (AP).—Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, was expected to reply today to Mayor James M. Curley's criticism of her support of President Hoover's candidacy.

Mayor Curley cancelled his agreement to attend the Army's campaign fund banquet last night because Miss Booth came out publicly in support of President Hoover.

In a letter to Miss Booth, the mayor said he refused "to contribute or participate in the further work of the Salvation Army, at least until such time as there is a return to the policy of non-participation in matters political by the Salvation Army."

Miss Booth, who was quoted on her arrival here as supporting President Hoover and prohibition, said:

"The Salvation Army takes no part in politics so don't ask me if I'm a Democrat or a Republican, but—vote for Hoover. I'm saying that, not the Salvation Army."

SHELL SHOCKED VETERAN PLED GUILTY TO CHARGE

Maurice Genney, a shell shocked veteran of the World War, charged with burglary, third degree and unlawful entry, appeared in supreme court Monday afternoon and entered a plea of guilty to the charge of unlawful entry through his attorney, Robert J. Howard. Sentence was postponed by Judge Bliss pending an investigation to determine whether Genny might not be eligible to some hospital instead of being sent to jail. He is charged with having entered a grocery store at High Falls. District Attorney Cleon B. Murray agreed with the court that it was care that the defendant needed instead of jail.

$4,000 Verdict For George A. Atkins

Plaintiff Was Injured in Auto Accident Near West Park Last June—Select Jury in Negligence Action.

A verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $4,000 was returned this morning in the action brought by George A. Atkins of Modena against Morris Schuster and Frederick Morgan, an action to recover for injuries which plaintiff suffered when he was involved in an accident near West Park on June 8, 1932. At that time an ice truck of Lorin Schantz of Highland was struck by a Reo truck driven by Morgan and owned by Schuster. Atkins was helper on the ice truck and was thrown through the windshield, suffering severe cuts and other injuries. An action was also brought by the father, Alfred Atkins, to recover for loss of service and hospital bills. The jury awarded him $500. Earl H. Houghtaling appeared for plaintiffs and A. J. Cook appeared for defendants.

In an undefended action brought by Jacob Forst Packing Company against George Jones of Kingston a verdict in the sum of $187.50 was returned for plaintiff. Max Forst testified that on June 15, 1930, he was driving a Packard car owned by the plaintiff company near Phoenicia when a car of defendant came around a curve and struck the Packard which had been pulled to the right of the road and was practically stopped when the accident happened. Mr. Forst said the car of Jones appeared out of control. A. H. Chambers of the Stuyvesant Garage testified that repairs amounting to $220.10 were made to the car. Robert J. Howard appeared for plaintiff.

A negligence action brought by Joseph Schulman against Wilson Bunting was announced as discontinued without costs. Ellsworth Baker appeared for plaintiff and Vernon J. Kelder for defendant.

The selection of a jury was then taken up in No. 13, a negligence action brought by Emma D. Modlin against Robert R. Rodie. Mrs. Hodlin seeks to recover damages for the death of her husband, John A. Hodlin, who was killed when a flag-pole which he was painting broke on August 6, 1930, on the property of Mr. Rodie on Albany avenue. Frank W. Brooks and Mr. Comstock appear for plaintiff and A. J. Cook and Charles W. Walton appear for defendants.

HELEN KELLER RECEIVES $5,000 ACHIEVEMENT PRIZE

New York, Oct. 18 (AP).—Miss Helen Keller, blind worker for the blind, was today awarded the $5,000 "achievement prize" given annually by the magazine Pictorial Review to a woman who during the past year has made some unusual contribution to science, art or social welfare.

Miss Keller returned this week from England and Scotland, where she spent the summer.

"Just imagine," she said, "receiving $5,000 during this depression. And it could not have come at a better time. The last two years we have had a difficult time raising money for the blind and the deaf. I have been worrying a great deal about the next winter and how we were going to carry on our work. I am sure that the $5,000 will act as a lever to raise all the money we shall need for the work."

Norris Made Speech.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18 (AP)—Senator George W. Norris carried his drive for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt into the middle west today after an opening speech in which he denounced party regularity and declared that without the "sinister influence" of partisanship President Hoover "has no chance of being re-elected."

Birthday Candle Ignites Party Dress, Little Girl Dies

The funeral of Nellie Salisbury, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Salisbury, of Post street, Saugerties, who died Sunday evening in the Kingston Hospital of burns received when on Saturday her birthday party dress made of crepe paper became ignited, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home. Interment was made in the family plot in Mountain View Cemetery.

The little girl had a birthday party on Friday evening and was attired in a dress made of crepe paper. On Saturday she put on the dress and while lighting a candle, left from the party, the dress accidentally became ignited and in a moment she was enveloped in a mass of flames. Her mother, hearing her shrieks, went to her aid and in a desperate effort tried to subdue the flames but without success. Delia Crum, a cousin of the little girl, who was in the Salisbury home at the time of the tragedy, threw a tablecloth about Nellie's burning clothes and put out the fire. Little Nellie was horribly burned and Mrs. Salisbury was also burned on both hands.

Dr. R. F. Diedling was immediately called and he gave first aid to both, after which the girl was taken to the Kingston Hospital, where Dr. Joseph Jacobson assisted Dr. Diedling in giving treatment. The child, badly burned about the head, face and body, lingered until Sunday evening, when death brought an end to her agony. The sympathy of the entire community of Saugerties is extended to the bereaved parents.

Britain Abrogates Treaty With Soviet

London, Oct. 18 (AP).—J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, announced in the House of Commons today that Great Britain has abrogated its commercial treaty with Soviet Russia.

Under article 21 of the tariff agreement reached at the recent Ottawa inperical conference, he said, renunciation of the temporary commercial agreement with Russia was made necessary.

This agreement was signed in April, 1930. It gave Russia the privileges of most-favored-nation treatment and therefore, Thomas explained, it stands in the way of trade prohibitions which might be necessitated by the obligations undertaken at Ottawa.

In notifying the Russian Charge D'Affaires here that Great Britain is serving six months notice of abrogation in accordance with the pact, the Soviet authorities were informed that Great Britain is still anxious to increase its trade with Russia and is ready to enter discussions with that object in view at the earliest possible time.

Canada and Australia were particularly concerned during the negotiations at Ottawa that the British government should adopt effective means to prevent resumption of Russian dumping on the wheat market.

Mrs. Laura Bombace of New Rochelle was instantly killed and her seven year old son was injured fatally Monday about noon in a head-on collision a short distance above Red Hook on the Rhinebeck-Hudson highway.

In Rhinebeck hospital are two other members of the family, Frank Bombace, 29, in a serious condition suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries and a second, John, 4 year old son. The boy is also seriously injured.

Occupants of the other car, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Butler, Wellesley Hills, Mass., are in the hospital but their condition is not considered serious.

MRS. F. D. ROOSEVELT CAMPAIGNS FOR LEHMAN

New York, Oct. 18 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the Democratic candidate for President, has taken the stump—not for the national ticket, but for Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who is running for governor of New York to succeed her husband.

She made her first speech in Lehman's behalf last night at a Democratic rally in Riverdale, on the northern outskirts of New York city, predicting that in the next few years "people are going to pay a great deal of attention to the way money is spent by the government," and warning against "economy that is detrimental to the public welfare."

Call Alleged Plot Absurd.

Athens, Oct. 18 (AP).—Charges of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, that a plan is afoot to kidnap him and return him to Chicago to face embezzlement and larceny charges, were characterized as "absurd" today by Leland B. Morris, charge d' affairs of the American legation here.

Disorderly Conduct Charge.

Frank Welber, 28, colored, whose residence is given as Goldrick's brickyard, East Kingston, was committed to the Ulster county jail Monday by Justice John Acker to await a hearing this evening on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Enthusiasm Marks Scout Drive Opening

Enthusiasm marked the opening dinner and rally of the workers of the Kingston area in connection with the Boy Scout Finance Campaign which takes place this week. This rally was held at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church Hall Monday evening.

Practically all teams and workers were present and displayed not only a willingness but an enthusiasm to accomplish the task by Thursday night.

Paul Zucca lead the singing with Daniel Bittner at the piano. Judge Culloton presided at the rally and urged the men to roll up their sleeves and to make it possible for every one in this section to give as best they could to the movement.

Van Ingen Speaks

Prof. Van Ingen gave a short address in which he pointed out that all great movements in the world today are youths movements. He pointed out the numerous youths movements in countries abroad. Italy, which has 750,000 boys between eight and 14, and 250,000 between 15 and 18, has still another large group between 18 and 22. The speaker pointed out the youths movements not only in Italy and Russia but throughout Europe and Asia. Prof. Van Ingen said that back of all these is the military training and the military teaching, but in America the youth movements are vastly different. They are non military, non partisan, but have for their main objective the development of character and training in leadership, and that the Boy Scout program is doing an exceptionally fine piece of work in that connection. Prof. Van Ingen urged the workers to make no apology for the task they had but to hold their heads high and to urge every one to do his part. The speaker said that he knew Kingston would do its full share as it always had and would not fail at this time. Referring to a football game Mr. Van Ingen said that the cry was generally "We want a touch down." He said that was what we wanted in connection with the Finance Campaign was "A touch down" and a successful finish.

Prof. Van Ingen's remarks were accepted with enthusiasm by all present.

Judge Culloton announced that the communities outside of Kingston have challenged the local workers that they would complete their work before those in the city and would be ready with a complete report on Thursday night. At this point the local chairman, Ray Everett, accepted the challenge of those on the outside and said that the battle was on. Mr. Everett spoke about the need of seeing all prospects and finishing the campaign in the time given. He also said that the boys had done their part in connection with the campaign and that other boys desiring to be Scouts were looking to Kingston to make it possible for them to carry on.

Herbert Thomas, the major of the Up-town division, stated that his division was out with all its team captains and most of its workers and that they expected that they would finish their work by Thursday night and would have all done before the other two divisions. John Schwenk, major of the Mid-town division, and Conrad Heiselman, major of the Down-town division, accepted the challenge of Mr. Thomas and said that although their workers were not all present they were perfectly sure that when Thursday night came they would be finished as well as the Up-town section.

The Scout executive, Mr. Wright, was asked to explain the mechanism of the campaign. He urged all the workers to follow their instructions and to finish within the next three days. He stated that the budget being asked for was less by 24 per cent than the operating budget for the present year—and that that had been cut considerably from the amount asked for. Mr. Wright said that because of this reduction in the amount being asked for any further reduction would so seriously cripple the work as to materially affect the carrying on of scouting in the Ulster-Greene Council next year. Attention was called to the constant and steady growth of the work in the two counties and the increasing demands that were being made upon the council officials. There was said to be an increase of 26 per cent in membership at the present time, with prospect that the increase would reach 40 per cent in 1933, with constant demands for organization of new scout troops.

The second meeting and dinner of the campaign will take place this evening, Tuesday, in the First Dutch Church chapel with dinner at 6:30, when the first reports will be received. All workers and leaders are urged to be present so that full reports may be had and any further instructions might be given to the men. The entrance to the chapel is on Wall street. Clarence S. Schoonmaker, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will give a short address at this meeting.

County Meeting Of American Legion

A county meeting of the American Legion will be held Wednesday evening at Wallkill. The Auxiliary will also meet. After the meeting there will be refreshments and dancing. County Commander Robert Browning extends a cordial invitation to the Legionnaires of the nine posts in Ulster county to attend the meeting at Wallkill tomorrow night.

"Share-The-Work" Movement Headed By Rowland Here

The "Share-The-Work" Movement in Kingston gets under way with the appointment of Clarence Rowland, vice president and general manager of the Fuller Shirt Company, as local chairman. Mr Rowland will appoint deputies to take care of the coordination of the plants in this movement to make the present employment be of benefit to more of the operatives in industry.

The "Share-The-Work" Movement is headed nationally by Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the divisions have been divided in accordance with the Federal Reserve system, this area being a part of the Second Federal Reserve District, the chairman of which is Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors. This Federal Reserve District, which embraces all of the state of New York and portions of New Jersey and Connecticut, consists of ten regions, the local region embracing the Hudson Valley and east and west to the Connecticut line and the Delaware river. The regional chairman is Frederick H. Keefe, publisher of the Newburgh-Beacon News, through whom Mr. Rowland secured his appointment. The "Share-The-Work" Movement is a practical way to increase employment in periods when it is not possible to increase the volume of work. It will be successful only in the measure which the employers and employes recognize its purpose and place it in operation in their plants. It is hoped to do this without interfering with the successful operation or increasing the payroll of the individual plant. The recommendations are based on the experience of 3,500 companies throughout the United States which have had the "Share-The-Work" plan in effect for some time. It is estimated that these particular companies have furnished employment for more than 1,500,000 workers who otherwise would not have been employed. The "Share-The-Work" movement should never be carried to the point where it would cause hardship to present employes or harm to a particular industry. It has been found that in some plants work is already being shared and in these it is hardly fair to those employed to ask that they go further.

The purpose of the organization is to discuss the plan with employers and ask them if they are willing to follow the example of a great many concerns in their own line of business who have successfully adopted the "Share-The-Work" movement. Mr. Rowland plans on beginning his contacts with the industrial plants in Kingston early next week.

SCOUT APPLIES ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION, SAVES HIS DOG

A story from Athens tells how artificial resuscitation methods, learned at a Boy Scout demonstration, saved the life of a three months old puppy, supposed to be drowned.

Scout Paul Best of Athens was invested with the rank of tenderfoot Friday night and after his investiture witnessed an artificial respiration demonstration, part of the parents' night program. The next afternoon his three months old puppy fell into a ditch and after being under water five minutes was pulled out, supposedly drowned. It was five minutes more before Paul arrived on the scene. He got busy at once, applied artificial respiration just as he had seen it worked out the night before and after working fifty minutes revived the dog, which is now alive and well.

SAYS R. C. IS BLOCKING RELIEF IN HOLDING FUNDS

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—The people's lobby charged in a statement today that the Reconstruction Corporation "is blocking relief through the unjustified interpretation * * * that the $300,000,000 appropriated for relief loans must last two years."

The organization, headed by Professor John Dewey, added:

"The act merely states that the $300,000,000 'shall, until the expiration of two years (after enactment) be available for payment to the governors,' while the corporation is trying to string out the payments for the two years, according to the chairman."

L. P. HENDERSON KILLED BY CHINESE BANDITS

Mukden, Manchuria, Oct. 18 (AP).—The American citizen killed by bandits in the Hsinpin district was identified today as Lloyd Putnam Henderson, 38, formerly of Seattle, Wash., a Presbyterian missionary.

The Japanese soldiers drove off the bandits, but Henderson was hit by a bullet fired by the bandits. His wife and two children are visiting at Heijo, Korea.

Two Arrests in Poughkeepsie.

Kingston prohibition office investigators made two arrests in Poughkeepsie Monday. At 22-A Washington street, they arrested Joseph Dorsey on a charge of possession and seized alleged apple whiskey and beer. The other arrest was at 141 Mill street, where George Card was arrested on a charge of possession and sale. Alleged whiskey, wine, beer and cider were seized. Both defendants were held for arraignment today before Commissioner Platt.

Asks Separation from Captain Joseph Hutton

Alleging failure to support and cruelty, Mrs. Margaret Hutton of this city sought alimony and counsel fees of her husband, Captain Joseph R. Hutton, owner and operator of three Hudson river barges plying between Buffalo and New York city, in a separation action Mrs. Hutton has brought, when the matter came before Justice Morschauser in Supreme Court in Poughkeepsie on Saturday. The couple were married April 25, 1923, in this city, where Mrs. Hutton resides with their two children. According to Solomon Goodman of New York city, attorney for the barge captain, the captain now is living on one of his barges. There appears to have been some religious differences between the captain and his wife, according to legal papers submitted. Justice Morschauser reserved decision.

William A. Mulvey, attorney for Mrs. Hutton, in asking for adequate alimony and counsel fees, said that Captain Hutton's income is $10,000 a year and that among other things he owns three barges worth $26,000.

Mr. Goodman, on behalf of the captain, argued that the captain lives on one of the barges and just manages to make a living by means of his runs between Buffalo and New York. He said that the barges may be worth $26,000 but there are mortgages totaling $29,000 against them. He pointed out that in city court in this city the captain was ordered to pay only $10 a week for the support of his family. The husband filed his own counterclaim asking for a separation decree. Decision was reserved.

Governorship Heads Illinois Politics

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP).—The battle for the governorship, in which has been matched political acumen obtained in years on the hustings and in office, has dominated the Illinois state campaign in this presidential year.

Heading the Republican ticket as the party's candidate for governor is Lennington Small of Kankakee, chief executive of Illinois, from 1920 to 1928, a figure of power in state Republican circles for years.

On the Democratic ticket, the candidate is Judge Henry Horner of Chicago, presiding jurist of the Cook county probate court.

The struggle between these two has raised the campaign to feverish heights.

Economy in government and proposals for hastening prosperity have been made the main issues in the contest. Small has pointed to increases in the state treasury balance during his former terms; Horner to the increased efficiency and lower cost brought about in Chicago's probate courts under his jurisdiction.

"MULE BRIDE" SHOT IN LOVERS' QUARREL

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 18 (AP).—Louise Green, 16, who said her father gave her in marriage three years ago in a swap for a team of mules, lay in a hospital with a wounded leg today, and William Perrigo, 23, who shot her, asserted that he would marry her even if she were crippled, if he is not sent to prison.

Perrigo was held pending the outcome of the girl's wounds. He surrendered after the shooting, and police quoted him as saying he shot her "because I loved her and because I wanted to and I don't care if I get 99 years."

Louise, daughter of Henry Gibbs, ran away from her 45-year-old husband, Ed Green, to whom she claimed to have been traded, and litigation over the team of mules began, which led to several physical encounters between members of the families.

PORTSMOUTH PRISON QUIET AFTER RIOTING.

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 18 (AP).—There was quiet today at Portsmouth penitentiary, on the shore of Lake Ontario near here, where troops were called last night to quell a riot by the 906 prisoners. The riot, in the course of which the prisoners threatened to set fire to the prison buildings, was reported to have begun over a demand by the men for cigarette papers, more tobacco and longer recreation periods.

Two prisoners were injured. The soldiers fired several volleys. They finally withdrew when the prisoners threatened to burn the buildings, including those in which they had barricaded themselves, if the troops remained.

Republican Club Meeting Thursday

The regular weekly meeting of the Republican Club will be held in the Servicenter, Broadway and Pine Grove avenue, Thursday night at 8 o'clock. A program of speeches and entertainment equal to those put on at the last two meetings has been arranged. It is expected that more than 400 men will attend and the seating capacity of the hall will be greater than last week when that number turned out at the meeting.

President Hoover Frames Campaign Speech to Detroit

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP).—President Hoover is framing his Detroit campaign speech, considering the while just where to make rear platform appearances on his third mid-western trip next week-end. The subject of the Detroit address was not disclosed.

Nor was any definite decision on other pre-election plans of the Republican nominee made public. He will return to the White House immediately after his Detroit address. Then Republican leaders here look for a swing along the Atlantic seaboard topped by a New York or New Jersey speech.

Next in order is the possibility of a journey to California. Mr. Hoover still is considering requests that he go to his Palo Alto home just before Election Day. Only yesterday, Secretary of the Treasury Mills returned from a transcontinental political trip to say that Californians "want" Mr. Hoover to come there.

Forcasts Victory

Mills brought to the President forcasts of victory at the polls. He said he told Mr. Hoover there was a "swing" toward him that would mean his re-election.

California, Oregon, Wyoming, Utah, Kansas and Michigan were listed by Mills as states "safe" for the President and he predicted a close fight in Washington, Missouri, Nebraska and Minnesota. He added:

"Business is on the mend. That is statistical and not a political statement." * * *

"Over part of my route I followed the itinerary of Governor Roosevelt on his western trip. Everywhere I went I found that the impression Roosevelt had made was purely negative."

President Hoover will leave Friday evening for Detroit. In order to reach new audiences, it is expected the presidential train will take a different route than those followed to Des Moines and Cleveland.

Meanwhile, a message advocating the re-election of Mr. Hoover went out from Detroit to all Ford Motor Company employes. The company submitted for the consideration of its men a belief that "any break in his program would hurt industry."

Trip Itinerary

The President today planned tentatively an itinerary for his week-end trip to Detroit that would allow him to make appearances at Charleston, W. Va., and Columbus and Toledo, Ohio.

An alternate plan was still before the chief executive, however, that would carry him to Parkersburg, W. Va., in place of Charleston.

Whichever route he follows, however, stops will be made at Columbus and Toledo.

It was indicated at the White House that the president is leaning toward the route that would carry him though Charleston. Whether he will leave the train there for a brief speech on Saturday morning has not yet been decided.

FORD STATEMENT STIRS MICHIGAN DEMOCRATS

Detroit, Oct. 18 (AP).—The statement issued yesterday by the Ford Motor Company to its leaders throughout the country advocating the re-election of President Hoover brought outspoken criticism today from several Michigan Democratic leaders.

The Ford statement said that President Hoover's "efforts to start the country back to work are beginning to show results," and added that "we are convinced that any break in his program would hurt industry and employment."

William A. Comstock, Democratic candidate for governor, speaking at Alpena last night, said "Henry Ford has not always cooperated so well with the Republican party." He referred to a recent address by Secretary Ogden Mills. "Mr. Mills," he said, "told his audience the same thing the Republicans have been telling you for two years, that prosperity was only 60 days away. And on that very same day Ford put through his third wage cut."

Alfred Debo, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, termed the statement "coercion at its worst, a demagogic partisan appeal."

The Ford statement disclaimed any attempt to "control any man's vote."

Attack Tariff Preference.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 18 (AP).—The Canadian Liberty party opened a drive today against the tariff preference agreements negotiated by Great Britain and Canada at the recent imperial trade conference and hinted that a general election might be demanded to carry the issue to the people.

Debate Candidates.

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP).—The conflicting views of two of the nation's political leaders, as to who would make the better president, Herbert Hoover or Franklin D. Roosevelt, today were before members of a political forum, arranged by Northwestern University.

ULSTER COUNTY APPLES GOING TO BELGIUM

Milton, Oct. 17.—Export shipments of apples made from Milton will be diverted from England to Belgium beginning this week, as a result of the increase in duty which Great Britain has just put into effect on products shipped from the United States in order to favor Canada in her inter-colonial trade. The duty will interpose an additional barrier to exportations of fruit from here and as a result about 2,000 barrels of Ben Davis apples, the fruit growers expect to send abroad this week will go to the continent. In all probability these shipments will go to Antwerp on one of the steamers of the Red Star Line. A large portion of the Ben Davis crop will be exported this year in order to keep these lower priced apples off the New York market. It had been thought that a substantial portion of the Ben Davis apples would go to South America as has been frequently the case in past years, but the Latin-American trade is asking that its apples be wrapped this year and naturally this means more trouble and an additional expense of 50c or more a barrel, consequently most of the Ben Davis apples will go to Europe.

Pears and apples for export to the United Kingdom have been going out from Milton last Thursday and Friday for shipment on the steamer Georgic. Last Saturday 600 barrels of apples, including Jonathans, Delicious and Hubbardsons, all small, were in this shipment. The prices paid the growers are from $1.75 for the smallest fruit up to $2 and $2.25. Sizes range from 2 to 2¼ and 2½ inches. The price is governed by the size, variety and quality. The largest size included in the shipment sold at $2.45 for Jonathans and Delicious. The Hubbardsons were consigned. Included in the shipment are 200 barrels of small Keiffer pears. Prices are $1.85 to $2.40 for fruit from 1¾ to 2⅛ inches in size, f. o. b. New York.

Routes for prospectors' trails from harbors into mineralized sections of Baranof Island, Alaska, are being located by the government forest service.

ALLIGERVILLE.

Alligerville, Oct. 18.—The Alligerville Sunday school brought back the banner from the Rondout Valley Sunday School Convention which met in Napanoch last week. The average attendance for the summer was 74.8 per cent, the attendance at the convention 100 per cent. It goes without saying that all interested are very proud of their trophy.

The Rev. Henry Zigley, a guest at the Trowbridge house, was in church Sunday morning and assisted Mr. Howard in the services.

Mrs. Nora Hines is spending some time with relatives and friends in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brooks entertained company from New York city and West Shokan last week. Also a party from Phoenicia visited them during the week.

Congratulations are extended to Maurice Rappaport, who was recently married in Boston, where he has finished his medical course, and is planning to make his future home there.

Mrs. Hattie Johnson has returned from Caldwell, N. J., where she has spent the summer.

Russel Trowbridge and Walter Brooks represented the congregation at the classical meeting in Tillson last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schoonmaker, who have been employed at Mohonk Lake during the summer season, are at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Coleman spent the week-end at their cottages.

Mr. Malley, the station agent in Kyserike, has been transferred to the village of Roscoe, Sullivan county.

North Dakota expects a larger poultry crop to be marketed this fall and winter in view of a 7.5 per cent increase in chickens raised.

Cases Appearing In Supreme Court

Supreme court re-convened Monday afternoon and the first matter taken up before Judge Bliss was an undefended action brought by The People of the State of New York against Louis Jalkow, an action for penalty. It was alleged that Jalkow had exposed certain grape juice products in violation of the state law in that the product was not labeled as a substitute product as required by the law. Daniel Hoffman was attorney of record for plaintiff and there was no appearance on the part of defendant. A fine of $50 was imposed.

An action on insurance policy brought by Harris Kass against North American Accident Insurance Company was announced as settled.

The negligence action brought by George A. Atkins as guardian of Alfred Atkins, against Morris Schuster and Frederick Morgan and the action for loss of services brought by George A. Atkins against the same defendants were concluded and a sealed verdict directed.

An action brought by Emma D. Hodlin, as administratrix, etc., of John A. Hodlin against Robert R. Rodie was then moved for trial.

Tin Enameling

It is contended that tin enameling made its bow in England in the Elizabethan age, an Italian, Jasper Andries, having migrated from Antwerp and started activities in Norwich, to move later, in 1570, to London. Little is known of this project or of other later potteries around Lambeth running in the first days of the Seventeenth century.

Musical Term

In music, cassation signifies the type of orchestral work consisting of several short movements of a light character, popular in the Eighteenth century, serenade and divertimento being other names for much the same kind of composition. Mozart wrote three works so named.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Too Quick on Trigger.

Rochester, Ind.—Three hunters opened the duck season with a big splash. Henry Smith, and his sons, John and Charlie, were out in a canoe. A duck flew by. All turned to shoot, and capsized the craft. Their duck season ended, since their guns sank.

Oklahoma Governor Canny.

Oklahoma City—Governor Murray is watching the state's pennies as well as the dollars. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation advanced $181,712 to the state.

"They beat us out of eight cents," said "Alfalfa Bill." "I asked for $181,312.98."

What Price Contented Cows?

Muskogee, Okla.—Annoyed because his oil wells were frightening his cattle, Jefferson Harrison, full-blood Seminole Indian, has arranged to get peace for the cattle. He bought a 450-acre ranch, away from the wells, for $25,000.

Modern Noah.

Pittsburgh — Construction of a "modern ark" will be started at Fairmont, W. Va., upon the arrival of the "foundations"—two river barges enroute from this city.

Dr. John W. Sproul, disciple of Divine healing, said his floating tabernacle will be designed to accommodate 1,500 souls at a sitting. From Fairmont he plans a "salvation sail" to the Gulf of Mexico.

Ignorance is Bliss.

Madison, Wis.—A Wisconsin resident who took a civil service examination for a position in the state service wrote a letter to A. E. Garey, director of personnel, in which he demanded to know why he was not chosen.

Mr. Garey did not make the man's name public, but here is his letter:

Dear Sir: On the 24th of Sept. 1. I have tacking an examination Dyrety—but was rejected. I warik with all my nollge. I am sure I outo git that job."

Voted at Five Score Years and Two.

Charleston, W. Va.—A negro, "old enough to vote" when members of his race first received the privilege at the close of the Civil War, has registered to cast his ballot in November.

Supported by two friends, David Blair hobbled into the registrar's office.

"Age?" inquired the clerk.

"Well, next birthday," Blair replied, "I'll be 111."

The clerk looked up, paused. Then into the books it went "110."

Coppers Lose Out.

Detroit—A flying squadron of plainclothes policemen tried everything from false whiskers to undersized shoes in a concerted effort to get evidence on speakeasies over the week-end, but when the score was totaled up it read:

Policemen refused admittance by doormen—210.

Policemen admitted by doormen—8.

Now the police want to know how the doormen do it.

Shot Out of Shoes.

Paterson, N. J.—Joseph Kuhn displayed embarrassment when police found him wandering the streets in his socks. His story, as related by detectives, is that he and some friends were rifling the tool box of a parked automobile when some one fired two shots at them. Kuhn jumped right out of his shoes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"WITHOUT ME YE CAN DO NOTHING", SAYS KAISER

Berlin, Oct. 18 (AP)—The latest reply of former Kaiser Wilhelm to a call for his return to the throne of Germany is a scriptural text, quoting words of Christ:

"Without me ye can do nothing."

The message was sent last night from his exile at Doorn, Holland, to be read at a meeting of the "League of the Upright." The League convened last night for the first session it has held since it was suppressed a decade ago after the slaying of foreign minister Walter Rathenau.

Lasher-Coffin

Sherwood F. Lasher of 69 Pine street and Miss Lillian A. Coffin of 44 Henry street, were united in marriage on Sunday by the Rev. Arthur S. Cole of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church. They were attended by Miss Martha Showers and C. Herbert Finger.

Hadassah Dinner

The Junior Hadassah Society held its first meeting of the season at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday night. It was preceded by a delightful dinner, attended by 47 members and guests. Plans for future activities were discussed. The Hadassah will hold a formal dinner dance some time in the near future.

The Coterie.

The Coterie has postponed its coming meeting from October 22 to October 29, because of the open meeting of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs on the 22nd. On Saturday, October 29, the Coterie will meet with Mrs. Harry Smith, who will have the paper for the day on "The Music of George Washington's Time—Musical Background."

Sorosis.

This week's meeting of Sorosis was held at the home of Mrs. Brown. During the business of Sorosis, the members were reminded of the Federation open meeting on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the chapel of the First Reformed Church, the Monday Club entertaining. In presenting the paper for the day on "International Relations Before the World War," Mrs. Ward Brigham not only told with great care and fairness of those relations at that period but of the immediate history that paved the way for their existence. It was a very valuable paper. Next Monday the club will meet with Mrs. Culver at her home, No. 83 Washington avenue.

Ackerman-Sweet

Saugerties, Oct. 18—A wedding occurred on Sunday, October 16, in the Methodist Episcopal Church on Washington avenue, when Miss Ida Sweet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sweet, of Robinson street, and Roger Ackerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ackerman, of Russell street, were united in marriage by the Rev. J. C. Eason, pastor. The maid of honor was Miss Beulah Robinson and Orville Sweet was the groom's best man. The bride and groom are well known in this place and their many friends wish them a happy and prosperous married life. Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman will reside in Albany, N. Y., where he is employed with the Schaffer stores.

10th Wedding Anniversary.

A number of friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Naccarato, Sawkill, on Saturday evening, to celebrate the 10th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Altamari. Dainty refreshments were served. After the guests had a most enjoyable time they departed in the wee hours of the morning wishing Mr. and Mrs. Altamari many more years of happy married life. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Mancuso and family; Mr. and Mrs. John Sottile; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Perry; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Perry; Mrs. Catherine Perry; Mrs. Rose Perry; Mr. and Mrs. John Sottile and family; Peter and Joseph Perry; Charles and Anthony Sottile; John Crispino; Joseph Carpino; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Naccarato; Mr. and Mrs. John Naccarato and family; Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Altamari and family; the Misses Frances, Mary, and Lillian Naccarato, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Naccarato.

Murray-Naylor.

Skaneateles, Oct. 15.—At the lakeside country home of Mr. and Mrs. William Greenwood Naylor, today occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marion Adelaide Naylor, to William Frederick Murray of Kingston, N. Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Murray of that city. The Rev. James Cady of the First Baptist Church performed the ceremony in the east garden, which was very colorful, the flower gardens being augmented with autumn foliage and an abundance of mountain ash berry twigs in brilliant hue. They were married in the presence of the immediate families. The bride was attired in her going away suit of wine color in pebble cloth, trimmed with beaver. She wore a corsage of orchids and swansonia. Immediately after the ceremony the wedding dinner was served at Krebs' and the couple left for Ottawa and other Canadian points.

Women's Federation Open Meeting.

The October open meeting of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs will be held on Saturday afternoon of this week at 2:30 o'clock in the chapel of the First Reformed Church. The Monday Club will be the hostess club. The business session will be called to order promptly at 2:30 o'clock and at 3 o'clock the Monday Club will present a very unusual speaker, Nikander I. Strelsky, teacher of the Russian language and literature at Vassar College. His subject will be the exceedingly interesting one of "The Creative Genius of the Russian People." Mr. Strelsky will answer the question, "Are the Russians really a melancholy nation?" He will tell of the pathos and gay humor of the folk-dance and how it helped to build a national musical literature. He will consider the ikon as a synthesis of eastern and western ideas; the genesis of Russian painting. Ancient cultural influences in peasant handwork will be described. Mr. Strelsky will tell how legend and folk-song laid the foundation of Russian literature and will speak of Pushkin, the Russian Shakespeare, and of the giants of the 19th century, Tolstoy, Dostoyevsky, Turgenev and Chekov. The "Search for God and Beauty" will be touched upon by the speaker, who will also tell his audience about the rich inheritance of the modern proletariat and of the intelligentsia as a historical revolutionary force, summing up his lecture with a presentation of Russia's cultural inheritance and the present day. Individual members of the Federation of Women's Clubs are reminded that they are privileged to bring two guests with them to the open meeting on Saturday afternoon.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 18, 1932.

What faith can anyone put in the shallow promises of Franklin D. Roosevelt as against the accomplishments of the Hoover Administration? Candidate Roosevelt, for political reasons, used his imagination and pictured a country gentleman's estate, consisting of a palatial mansion of 25 rooms, a stable of eight riding horses and formal gardens as a farm. He claimed credit for a law (Commission Merchant's Bonding Law) which he actually fought. All his farm claims are imaginary. In the meantime, Herbert Hoover, who lived and worked on a real farm, has been working night and day to find ways and means to help American farmers. Certainly, American farmers will not place their faith and future in the hands of a demagogue, who has no policy and advocates nothing except conflicting dreams. Yet, that is exactly what Candidate Roosevelt asks them to do.

The Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association is demanding that more and better roads be built without delay and its members are in critical mood because more roads have not been built, at enormous cost to the taxpayers. The Asbury Grange, in the town of Saugerties, demands that no more roads be built during the coming year, and that county expenditures be reduced 40 per cent. Everybody demands tax reduction and work for the unemployed. Everybody, with the exception of the Asbury Grange, demands lower taxation and more roads and other activities at the cost of the various branches of government. The Asbury Grange is at least consistent, although little more can be said in praise of its program. The Kingston Uptown Merchants Association is, as an organization, also consistent in that while demanding more and expensive road building it has not made a demand for lower taxes. But can the same thing be said of its individual members?

PROTECTION FOR GOVERNMENT

The superintendent of police at Washington has asked the commissioners of the District of Columbia to ask Congress for a law which would give the police "undisputed authority to evacuate any army of indigents after their constitutional rights of petition have been exercised." This request is made in order to avoid a recurrence of the situation which developed recently, when the Bonus Expeditionary Force, encamped in Washington, proved embarrassing alike to the city and the government and eventually brought trouble on everybody concerned.

Other "marches on Washington" are said to be threatened this winter. It would be natural. Also justifiable, according to our American tradition and law. The constitutional "right of petition" is sacred. A "petition in boots" has as much right as a written petition. Citizens may march to Washington and ask the President or Congress to grant relief or redress grievances if they choose. A marching lobby presumably has as much right to the ear of the government as any less demonstrative lobby.

But this is not saying that any such body has a right to settle down and camp in Washington until its demands are granted. Anyone who has read a little history knows the danger of having an "army," whether military or civilian, camping in a national capital. Civil government must be protected from coercion. The residents of a capital city also have their rights.

JAPAN'S AMERICAN MARKET

That Chinese boycott is affecting the United States as well as Japan. The Japanese, seeking an outlet for goods which they can no longer sell in China, are turning more and more to America. They seem to be stressing 10-cent items in a way that puts American manufacturers in a hole. There was the 10-cent electric light bulb which made General Electric hustle to devise one to sell as cheaply. Now there are Japanese tennis shoes for 10 cents, and tuna fish at 10 cents in cans which compete with an American product at 15 cents. These articles do not seem to be much hampered by our tariffs. They sell well in spite of the fact that they are as cheap in quality as in price.

This may awaken a new sympathy for China. It looks, too, as if there would be a big increase in 10-cent goods, with American manufacturers striving mightily to hold the market the Japanese seek to win. The final outcome cannot be guessed, but the situation reveals again how closely related are international problems.

The best of friends must part. This is the most plausible explanation for the divorce epidemic at Hollywood. Last year there were 37 marital separations of film stars, and this year so far there have been 34. And nearly always the principals have assured the public that they are "the best of friends" and they "part with much regret." They only part, it appears, to preserve their friendship. There is probably a matrimonial lesson here for all the rest of us. It is a little like the celebrated advice that Punch gave to a young man about to marry. Only it would not be an arbitrary prohibition. It would be, "Don't marry if you're good friends."

BACK PAIN DUE TO STRAIN.

One of the things hard to understand is why a patient suffering with sciatica—that terrible pain in the largest nerve in the body—is satisfied to fill himself up with pain killing medicine every 3 or 4 hours instead of trying to to have the cause of the pain located.

In 3 out of every 4 cases the sciatic pain in the lower back, hip, and down the leg, is due to some infection in teeth, tonsils, gall bladder or large intestine. The removal of this infection sometimes brings instant relief, but nearly always within one or two weeks.

In the remaining cases the sciatica is usually due to a slight displacement of the large hip bone from the last wedge or triangular shaped bone of the spinal column. This is usually due to an injury of some kind—lifting, stepping down when you expected to step on the level, using the foot brake on a motor car, playing golf or other game, extreme bending and so forth.

When an injury has occurred some method of strapping the joint should be used just as when there is a sprain or strain of the ankle or other joint. Usually strips of adhesive tape are applied beginning about 2 inches below the point of the hipbone at one side and going across the back to the same point on the other side.

I have spoken before of a brace applied by Dr. J. E. Goldthwait, Boston, and his associates with a leather pad for the abdomen, and a brace for the small of back joined by leather straps, the lowest strap of which comes directly across the affected joints, at the same level as the adhesive tape mentioned above.

Dr. Orville Harry Brown, Phoenix, Arizona, suggests a very simple belt of elastic web, three or four inches in width. The web is cut the necessary length to span the hips, and the patient slips it on under the clothing and draws it so that it makes gentle, garter-like, pressure upon the hip bones at a point three or four inches below the top of the hip bones. The overlaping of one end is marked upon the other. It is removed and small safety pins are put in to hold it at the desired size. The patient then steps into it and draws it up to the proper position. In some cases it may be necessary to apply thin straps or thin rubber tubing around the legs to hold it in the proper place.

For early and moderately severe cases of strain of this joint, this should be a simple and effective device.

A PATH TO PARADISE

by Cosmopolitan DAWSON

SYNOPSIS: Clive woke in the deserted house of Santa Dawn's parents for Santa. He wrote to propose to her but Santa has broken her date with him. Santa is beautiful, gay, irresistible to the young men of her own and other sets. When she finally returns Clive cannot penetrate her flippant pose and decides out of the house where she insists she must "sample" many suitors to know whether she wants him. But Mrs. Dawn hurriedly examines her daughter away to Europe, feeling that Clive is making an impression after all.

Chapter 2

CLIVE'S NIGHT RIDE

FROM the hotel behind him Clive could hear the thump of dance music. From the verandah where he sat alone in the blue August dusk, he could see dim shapes of girls escaping with their escorts. In the rose-garden below the terrace, engines began to sputter. With groping headlights automobiles shot out, gathered speed and vanished.

He could guess their errands. In imagination he followed them. A girl and a man who had not known each other till within the past few hours, met accidentally on the bathing-beach or golf-course, had taken a momentary shine to each other. Tomorrow they would be paired differently.

What did they gain by experimenting? When the real thing arrived, it would find them with blunted appetites. On the other hand there was the bird in the hand theory. One might sleep through life saving up for a great event that never happened.

Suddenly he caught a glimpse of himself. Could Santa see him now, how she would laugh!

"Clive, darling, you are a dumbbell."

Because he was saving himself for her, he was acting like a monk. She wouldn't thank him for his loyalty; she would treat it as an infirmity.

"Time enough for that when you're married," she would tell him.

Her name spelt magic: she was aptly called. Her face was instinct with longing, yet longing that was impersonal. Her dark bobbed head was boyish; her hazel eyes melting. She had a trick of meekness, very appealing, in the way she employed her capable hands. She created the impression of needing protection.

It was out of the question that any girl should live up to her appearance. She didn't attempt to; she was outrageously modern. Welcoming all and sundry with gay impartiality, she led them as a flock beside the still waters of her gentleness in the pathetic belief that she could restore their souls. Clive's soul was an example of her restoring.

Since her mother had whisked her off to Europe, his days had been a protracted torment. On shipboard, in a train, through a chance meeting at some hotel she might pick up a more eligible Apollo. Every detail of her conduct and attire would be planned to advertise that she was accessible. Each time the picking-up process had been accomplished her mother, having shed an aroma of respectability, would discreetly vanish.

The correctness of Clive's prophecy had been reflected in her correspondence, which had consisted in the main of picture-postcards signed hurriedly, "With all my heart—Santa." Then had come the cabled news that she was returning and an invitation, amounting to a command, that he should spend the first week-end at her parents' country-house.

He wired her his challenge to mid-ocean.

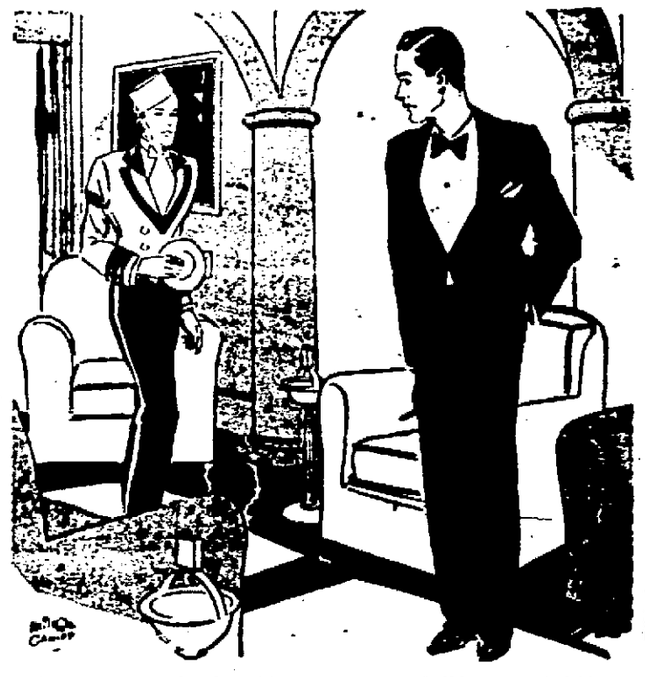
"Delighted you've finished sampling."

Injured silence had followed. Were he to see for reinstatement, he would become her dog-Fido. In a desperate mood of hesitancy the day she had landed he had driven to Cape Cod, there to spend his two weeks' vacation.

How long could he stand the suspense? That was the question. Memories tender, absurd, entrancing were undermining his resolution. The first time he had kissed her. She had been sixteen and he twenty. The difference in age had made him ashamed of his cradle-snatching.

The temptation had occurred as he was escorting her from a Christmas party. Suddenly he had halted the car and scarcely knowing what he was doing, had caught her to him. He had expected her to shrink from him. Instead, pressing closer, she had murmured, "O, lovely!"

That was Santa. She persuaded every man that he was her one and only.



Clive was emerging from his corner when a bell-hop accosted him.

He was emerging from his corner when a bell-hop accosted him.

"A telegram. Been paging you everywhere."

Clive's heart beat in his throat. He slit the envelope: "Must see you. Important. Santa."

Springing to action, he rushed into the hotel. At the desk he learned that by the earliest train he couldn't reach New York much before the next evening. His shortest means of travel was to drive, as he had come, by automobile.

From being old and done (old and done at 32!) he had joined the ranks of the young and gallant. He cast about for parallels to the grandeur of his passion.

His choice fastened on Gaston de Foix, the greatest general in Renaissance Europe, dead and buried at twenty-three, his fame accomplished, who at the siege of some Italian town (was it Brescia?) when walls were slippery with blood and men were faltering, had bound his right arm to his side with his lady's scarf and led the assault carrying his sword in his left hand to prove—O, splendid example!—how invincible youth is when it has been enslaved by a woman.

Santa's genius for extracting proposals was forgotten, together with the many times when she had almost engaged herself to other champs.

For the past week he had been analyzing with elderly clearness the phenomenon of infatuation: how a man could be such an ass as to get that way, to say that way and, infinitely more complicated, why it was that when his dreams had been realized, he frequently and disastrously recovered.

Under the spell of speed and moonlight such enquiries looked thin blooded. Santa's telegram could have but one interpretation.

And so he drove through the night, tearing the silence of deserted country roads into shreds, desecrating with his motor's high whine little New England villages.

He was speeding to answer Santa's call!

There are danger signals in Santa's past. Will Clive heed them, tomorrow?

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS by John Hix

Built during the World war as one of what was planned to be a chain of Pacific coast defensive forts, the fort at North Cove, in Washington, remained unused for 12 years before its guns were dismantled and removed to Fort Warden. Two six-inch disappearing rifles were the armament of the fort. During the war the battery was manned by a crew of 26 men.

With the signing of the armistice shortly after the guns were erected, the soldiers were withdrawn from the position and the fort was abandoned, with the exception of one soldier who was left on duty to care for the guns. The soldier, Private A. E. Daily, remained at the fort for 12 years—a one-man standing army—daily polishing the guns and shoveling sand away from the mounts.

The guns were never fired.

Wearing handcuffs that once shackled the notorious bandit, Gerald Chapman, Mrs. Lottie Schoemmell of New York, swam the Hudson river from Seventy-ninth street to the Battery. Mrs. Schoemmell was fettered at the hands and feet. She completed the swim in less than two hours.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, Oct. 18—Millard Davis, Sr., a former resident of Olive who now makes his home in Kerhonkson, spent the week-end with friends in the village. Mr. Davis's large circle of acquaintances here are always glad to see their old fellow townsman on his periodical visits to Shokan.

Monday, October 17, was registration day for election district No. 1. The books were in charge of the following members of the registration board: Ira Elmendorf, chairman; Seymour Winne of Ashokan; Justus Bell, Shokan, and Burton Bell of Brown Station.

The McNally & Bouton vaudeville company left town on Sunday for New Kingston where they will show during the coming week. They had a very satisfactory run in Shokan, the village hall being crowded to capacity nearly every night. Special features during the week included the amateur night on Friday, at which the first prize, an Indian blanket, was won by Master George Herklotz of The Bronx, who has been visiting at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herschenroeder, of the mountain road. Young Herklotz's singing act went over big with the audience at Friday evening's performance. A dance was held following the conclusion of the show on Saturday night, the arrangements for which were handled by members of the local fire association. Mr. Bouton, who has been entertaining the public for sixty years, and the other members of the company, staged a first rate show here.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith and daughter, Mrs. Elva Bogart, came up from Kingston to spend the week-end at the Bogart place on the Ashokan mountain road.

A local marriage of October 18, 1899, was that of Benjamin Van Steenburgh of Brown Station to Minnie DuBois of Shokan. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. F. Piper, pastor of the Shokan M. E. Church, and the witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis. Mr. and Mrs. Van Steenburgh now make their home on the old DuBois farm near the village and they are actively identified with the Methodist Church of Ashokan. They have one daughter, Mrs. Vera Sickler, who resides in Port Byron.

Justin Bell and family of New York city were visitors at the home of their relatives here over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Belmonte of Brooklyn returned home on Monday after spending their honeymoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herschenroeder. The young couple made a number of friends during their week's sojourn in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sickler of the lower village left town on Sunday for an automobile trip to Washington, D. C., where they expect to remain several days.

Sylvester and Henry Wells have started their wood sawing outfit going for the season. The boys tuned up their saw on a pile of seasoned oak sawdwood at George Hogan's on Monday.

Mrs. William Mulligan and the Misses Anna and Mae Mulligan motored here from New York city and spent the week-end with Mrs. Mulligan's mother, Mrs. C. G. Fuller, of Mountain Laurel Lodge. Mrs. Mulligan before her marriage was Miss Margaret Fuller of Shokan and New York city.

Domino tournaments have been resumed at the corner store after a lapse of several months, those who took a turn at matching the chips at Monday's opening games were the following: Homer Markle, Jr., Elwyn Winchell, "Bill" Personeus and Frank Barringer. Each of these gentlemen plays a mean hand at the game, whether it be of the block, or muggins variety.

PHOENICIA PASTOR SAYS CHURCH IS NEEDED

The Rev. Mr. Diekmann, in his sermon at Phoenicia Methodist Church on Sunday morning, said, "You may have accumulated more than your share of earthly goods, and yet not have found happiness and contentment. And so you have become disappointed, and probably disgruntled and soured on life. You need not become discouraged. It is simply a mistake you have made. You cannot buy happiness. Happiness can only be acquired through a companionship with God, an embodiment of the life of Christ, by the living of your life for others. That means that not only should we share our fellow man's joys, but also that his sorrows should be our sorrows, his griefs our griefs, we should share his burdens. And surely in this day there are many such opportunities.

". . . My friends, we need the church. Our very nature demands a spiritual fellowship. Neglect of the church means starvation of the soul. Some say, 'I can worship God out in the woods. I can pray down by the babbling brook. I can read my Bible under the shade of the trees'

"Yes, my friends, you can, but you don't. Nor have I ever met anyone yet who says they can that does.

"For your own sake, don't neglect the church."

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill, Oct. 18.—The annual hot chicken supper of the Cottekill Reformed Church will be held on Thursday evening, October 20, in the church hall. The supper will begin at 5:30 o'clock and continue until all are served. The menu is tempting and the price is reasonable.

Mrs. A. H. Gillespie is having a new garage erected on her property. This adds greatly to the appearance of her place.

On Saturday evening a birthday surprise was given Oscar Bunch. A number of friends from the village met and in a body arrived at his home. It was a great surprise to Mr. Bunch, but considering the dainty refreshments later served by Mrs. Bunch the surprise was not shared by her.

The Misses Mabel and Ruth Snyder spent the week-end at their home here.

The dance on Wednesday evening, given by the Volunteer Fire Company, was a success. A very nice crowd was present and a tidy sum toward the apparatus was realized.

OFFICE CAT.

Officer—Say, didn't you see the signal?

Pretty Miss—Yes, but I didn't see you.

Maixie—Why do you always turn out the light when Otis comes to see you?

Daisy—Because I just can't bear to see him act the way he does.

When a young couple marries it is said they are too young to know their own mind but if they wait until they're old, folks remark that they thought they were old enough to know better.

Jack—What did your father say when first he saw you after you were born?

Jerry—He asked the doctor how many more there was in the litter.

CLINKERS: As the sun grows cooler, the days become shorter, and as the honeymoon grows colder it's the kisses that get shorter. . . Deny it if you will but the majority prefer to have the few do their thinking for them. . . Another place where there is always more room is for another oyster in the soup. . . The trouble with most critics is that they are as narrow-minded and mean as the people they criticize. . . It hardly ever happens that two men have to be hired to do your work when you quit. . . Judge—Is the grand jury sifting the evidence?

Sheriff—Not exactly—it's straining it.

A truthful woman is one who doesn't lie about anything except her age, her weight, her bridge score, and her husband's salary.

Butcher—Round steak, madam?

Mrs. Newbride—The shape doesn't interest me, so long as it's tender.

You needn't ever expect to find a person who will scratch your back and not expect you to scratch his.

Hal—How about a little kiss, girlie?

Mae—No. I have scruples.

Hal—Oh, that's all right. I've been vaccinated.

The golfer who has paid up his club dues, settled for some lessons and bought an outfit, found it hard to believe that the game started in Scotland.

The Princess Line Seems a Good Line to Follow

New York—If it's elegance you want in clothes, the princess line gives it to you especially in velvet. It also solves the puzzling question of where to have your waistline. The true princess line follows the figure, but by adding trimming above or below the natural waist, one is able to detract attention from it if it happens that that is a desirable thing to do.

The lady of the illustration manages very cleverly to suggest the Empire line, and quite as cleverly contrives to have a sleeveless dress with just enough arm covering to make her at ease anywhere. Please note that the tiny, glimmering capelet contrasts with the gown for that is a way with sleeves this season no matter what their length or purpose. One sees many fur sleeved coats, an idea introduced by Lanvin. Most of them are very chic. There are dresses, coats, too, with velvet sleeves, and perhaps just a touch of velvet elsewhere on the model.

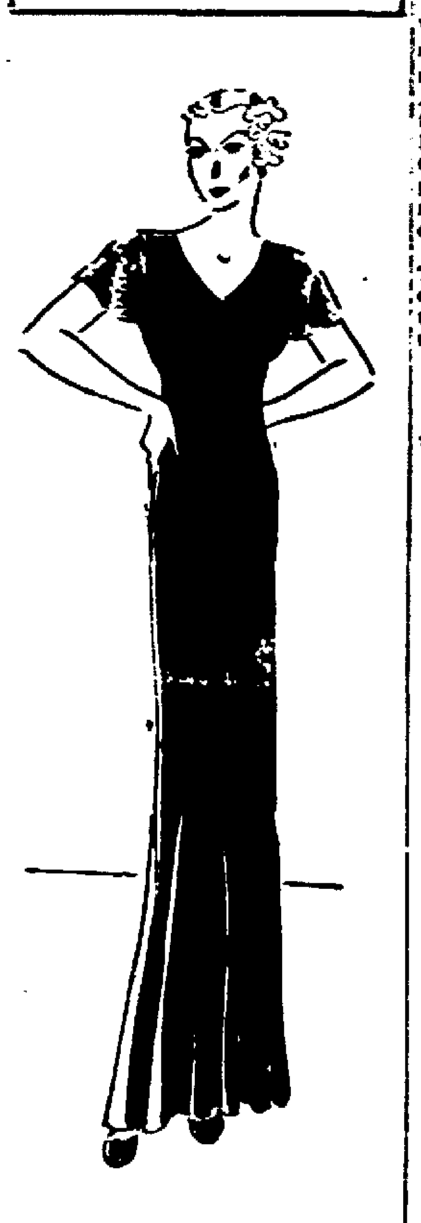
Note also that this model is sapphire blue, for it is developing that this is the pet color for evening velvets. For those who have courage, sapphire and ruby are tones that are an entirely satisfying combination but nothing so striking should be indulged in unless one has a generous equipped wardrobe.

We are all familiar with the little jackets worn for evening, some of which match, but most of which contrast. There are rival camps, however, with opposing ideas in evening wraps, these running along either cape or shawl lines. While shawls are invariably short, capes may be anywhere from waist to knee length.

Shawls are usually made of the dress fabric and fringed. They are worn any way that seems flattering. One should remember, the higher the neckline the smarter, this season.

Capes are usually fur bordered although there is no hard and fast rule about it. Ruches are an effective substitute. Ruches are very smart, as a matter of fact.

WITH SILVER SEQUINS



Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild.

Dress fashioned of royal blue transparent velvet, with the sequins in silver tone. The smooth unbelted line at the front is interesting.

When Fox Hunting

Since fox seems headed for supremacy in the trimming world, it is not surprising that new dyes should appear along with the many new contours which collars are assuming. Silver Burgundy fox was launched to take care of the wine and the brown coats, and its acceptance was widespread and immediate. Patou stimulated the interest in fox dyed to exactly match his Medieval brown. The shops show not only Burgundy and brown, but also dark blue tipped with silver that is variously known as "silver blue" or "azure blue." This fur is one to consider in selecting trimmings for brown coats, since the overtone of the fur is gray. It is also a perfect trimming for dark blue coats and suits.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Novelty velvet is rated so high in costume fashions for normal wear it should not be out or order for them in formal blouses.

A smart passenger returning from abroad wore with a black cloth suit a double-breasted overblouse of Roman striped jersey.

Contrast in color is very strong for day and evening, and will continue so. Green and red, and more occasionally yellow, are the characteristic accent colors. The combination of gray and brown, regarded as an "exclusive" idea entirely, now shows more chance of popularity, according to the greater numbers of it seen in New York.

In afternoon dresses, color is important, and black is not dominating the situation. Grapey red, Castilian red, or green, have been the colors noted so far.

Wear a bright colored woolen dress to the football game. Lightweight lacey woolens with a touch of velvet for contrast are dressy enough to be worn to dinner or a party after the game.

SATIN SLEEVES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The frock of rough-surfaced crepe which has satin sleeves is playing a stellar role in the new autumn fashions. Usually the sleeves are very wide at the armhole or they are apt to be leg o' mutton style or some styling along generous lines which makes them conspicuous for according to the dictate of style creators, sleeves must be made the center of attraction. The scarf of satin tied in a soft bow at the neck adheres to the new high-about-the-throat silhouette.

Detachable Furs for Autumn Coats Latest

Coats coming out for autumn wear are cut on depression lines, which really means that it is going to be very fashionable to have detachable fur trimmings that can be used on various clothes. First fall fashions being seen on the rue de la Paix indicate many separate capelets, draped collars and scarves and sets to be worn with several frocks and coats. Straight long coats, tied-on effects and buttoned up ones are on the style card.

OUR DAILY PATTERN

Republicans Still Lead California

(Copyright, 1932, by The Associated Press)

San Francisco, Oct. 18 (AP).—A wave of Democratic registration that surged in for last spring's presidential primary and swept on for the August balloting has broken in full force for the November election in President Hoover's home state of California, almost doubling as compared with 1928 but remaining nearly 400,000 under the Republican total.

Registration figures gathered by The Associated Press from all but one of the state's 58 counties showed today the following totals for the two major parties:

Republican, 1,539,560.
Democratic, 1,147,414.

These figures represented an increase of 555,253 for the Democratic party over the 1928 official registration and 3,893 for the Republicans. The state total of 2,847,655 compared with 2,313,816 for 1928 and again set a record. Every county gave an increase over the 1928 registration, that of the 1930 general state election and that of the May and August primaries of this year.

Around Reservoir With the Old Timer

October 12, 1932.

Editor, The Freeman:

A chilly, raw air today, with showers every whipstitch. Jest as I got to gain' good on outside work; the sun being bright and sky blue, the black clouds would come a-pilin' out of the west and down came the rain for a few minutes. Now what kin a feller do under sech weather conditions?

After dinner I remarked how coolish the day was and Marthy ses, Why don't you put on your heavy underwear, Eben, and I done so. Tell ye what, it made a great difference to my comfort. I find that at my age, no matter how many heavy shirts, vests and so forth a man claps on, ef he don't hev red flannel or some sech clothes next to his skin, the cold penetrates clean to his marrer and makes him miserable a good deal of the time. Blood gets thinner as we get along in years, and warmth must be provided from without. Yessir.

Now, Mr. Ed., I aim to continue on our way around the reservoir, beginning, not at a stake in a heap o' stones, as the surveyors say, but at the leetle park and turning space on the Beaverkill dyke where, if you ricollect, we knocked off sight-seein' on our last travelogue. Much water has passed into the big pond since last trip, which reminds me that your timely and complete account of the big freshet, with full description of conditions in the upper Esopus valley, was a corker. How in the world your men ever collected and whipped into readable shape all them facts and figgers, so soon after the storm, beats me. Reg'lar big town newspaper stuff, I calls it fer a fact.

Well, sir, Old Timer is like the black-faced comedian in the traveling show here t'other night; he came out stage with his long horn and made out to play a tune, but 'stid of doing so began to tell jokes and make wisecracks. He done this fer a spell, making motions with his instrument and bringing same to his mouth every couple of minutes, though playing nary a note. Of course when he finally did get down to business he tore right into it, which was jest what tickled the folks down in front. Then, after tooting a few rounds he resumed his monologue. Mebbe, now, that's the way yours truly cuts up when he starts out to take the readers on a sight-seein' trip. But never mind, We'll kivver the ground finally, I expect.

Yes, all my neighbors and friends appeared to enjoy the show, which was the fust one to come our way in quite a spell. The owners of the outfit did not stand at the door to take the money and look important but sailed right in as head actors, doing about all the work except at the piano, for which part they had one of these old-time key-tappers who performed as though he slept and et at his work. The senior partner, a man about 65 I should jedge, was as spry and chipper as one about half his age; he fiddled, played drum and traps, jigged (some call it tap dancin' but not me), and sung funny songs, whilst his better half—a handsome, well set up female—performed juggler tricks, sech as pumping water out of a boy's ear through a funnel and like o' that. They had movies too, though not the talking kind, and every night a different show.

Some of our folks opined it was as good a show as is put on in the county seat, though mebbe being amongst their own neighbors and everything on a sociable basis, with the kids a-stampin' their feet and cuttin' up, made the entertainment seem more to their liking. I didn't aim to go out for two nights in succession, but Marthy she was set on me takin' her, so I favored the woman. She allus ses the big job is to get me started to go places and that I hev a better time than she does after I get thar. Dunno but Marthy's right about that, fer I ginerally enjoy myself most anywhere and time. It is all the same to yours truly whether he gads around, or stays to hum and smokes and toasts his sox feet by the settin' room stove. Whatever comes along in the amusement and recreation line is all jake by me, as they say.

Well now, lessee, where wuz we at, and why in heck did we ever get off the track anyhow? . . . Looking out from this leetle piece of grass and clump of trees that was set aside for a resting place and look-off point, what do we see? Well, we see, to paraphrase the Ancient Mariner, Water, water everywhere, and not a drop that's not fitten to drink. This east basin of the reservoir which lies spread out before our eyes is so much longer than it is wide, that when viewed from the boulevard it looks more like a river; in fact, as seen from a point on the hill west of Glenford its similarity to the Hudson is very striking indeed. Still, the water is practically stationary much of the time, so it must be a lake. It is about the size of the west basin I should jedge; mebbe larger and possibly smaller—that I don't know. The water surface of the whole Ashokan when chuck full kivvers 12.8 square miles, or 8,180 acres, and the sum total of the contents is 132 billion gallons, being more than twice the combined capacities of the Kensico and Schoharie reservoirs (say, that old feller is a hound for facts and figgers, eh what).

Now I imagine some reader querying thusly. Does all the water in the east basin come from the west basin, off yonder? No, ma'am, I reply, though you might say that practically all of it does so. There are a few small brooks emptying into this basin, of which the one which crosses the north boulevard near the Ashokan railroad station is one. During the heavy rain of two weeks ago this brook spread itself to a width of forty feet at one point and was on a reg'lar rampage ginerally. So you see there was quite a bit of water that never enters the west basin on its way to the big city. Yet this brook and the others flowing into the basin at intervals betwixt Shokan and West Hurley would hardly fill up the great holler in ten years, even if none were to be drawn out of there.

Now please tell me—ses a lady and member of our party who lives in High Falls—jest how fur are we above sea level? She is curious to learn this fact because down where she comes from there is a deep siphon tunnel in the aqueduct, which allows the water to go down the mountain, then under the bed of the Rondout creek and so up a hill again. There must be a heap of pressure up in these parts to accomplish that feat, she opines. Well, ma'am, the high water line down yonder is 587 feet above mean tide in New York harbor, which is to say, three feet lower than the elevation of the water surface of the west basin and likewise the crest of the dividing weir under that bridge up thar. Yes, this water supply being so high in the air makes a dandy gravity system for New York City, since the water will rise into many of them tall buildings without any manner of pumping. This saves the Gotham taxpayers a couple of million dollars a year, which is the amount of mazuma they had to shell out for pumping before they got wise and came to our country for a part of their drink.

As for the terry firma which lies at the bottom of the east basin, and the appearance of same before demolition, denudation and decamping took place, I hev writ about that in a previous letter. There was the long Beaverkill swamp, extending from about opposite to where we now set, to the old village of West Hurley; also a strip of higher ground on the north and south shores where lived a few folks on scattered farms. There was a good deal of land that was practically wuthless unless cleared and drained, and only three villages; making it quite a different proposition from the site of the west basin, with its heavily populated communities and large acreage of highly developed farm land. So, we won't say any more about that aspect of it.

Now let's take a squint at the mountains which lie across the pond and behind the villages of Glenford, Ashokan and Shokan, going from right to left. These are the southerly peaks of the Catskills and they form a mighty pretty background for the reservoir. Back of Glenford, where the road goes over the crest into Montoma and Woodstock, the hills are not so high, though the view from this height is wonderful to behold. Pretty good rolling there for automobiles too and not such a steep grade as you might expect. Turn to your right at the leetle white Glenford church, hard by the dense pine grove, and you can kivver the distance over the mount and into Woodstock in jig time. Now mind ye, I don't mean the newly hard-surfaced road further east, which goes past all them artist folks' places and thence into Woodstock, though that's a nifty scenic drive too.

Next, allowing the eye to rove farther west'ard, we have Big Tonche mountain, which is quite a sizeable peak to be sure. This pile begins to rear itself into the upper stratus about a half a mile back of Temple's Pond, or Kenozia Lake, where a number of our urban readers have a fishing club. Tonche is partly in three towns—Hurley, Woodstock and Olive, as became generally known a spell back when they all appeared to want to get the Pitcairn place on their tax lists. If you look sharp, now that the leaves are getting off the trees, you can spy the mansion atop of the mount, the main buildings there being in the town of Woodstock, so I hear. The owner, who is quite a big man down in Philadelphia, makes this his summer home. He has bought up most of the land on both sides of the mountain, so now he and family have Tonche pretty much all to themselves.

Well, Mr. Ed.; might as well shut off the ignition and let radiator cool off till we kivver the distance along this short range of mountains with the eye. . . Little Tonche, where the Pitcairn tower stands, is separated from its big brother by a flat stretch. If you were to go down hill a leetle piece you strike the big farm and woodlands belonging to Mrs. Elva Bogart of Kingston, whose house stands along the road right cleat to the jumping off place, which gives her and friends one of the finest views on the American continent, I do believe. Further up the road, on land farmed by the Winchell brothers a century ago, are other fine places owned by city folks—Mrs. Helen Chase and members of her family; Mrs. Mary Rogers, and Robert K. Story. We can spot all these houses as we set here on the dyke, and also—when the leaves are all off—the old family burying ground, situate on a leetle knoll behind some white birches. All very picturesque, fer a fact.

Next, and less than a hoot & holler beyond Little Tonche, comes Tice Teneyck, our first reel big mountain and so named after one of the early Dutchmen who settled these parts in the fust place. Old Tice looms up high in air, and, because of the open country to the south and east of it, affords a corking view from its crest. Tradition ses there are silver and lead deposits there, and many hev searched in vain for sech hidden wealth. There are, in fact, some pretty big holes on the slopes of the mountain, where men hev dug down for to get out the treasure, in days gone by. 'Squire Levi Terwilliger, a surveyor and jedge in Olive Branch, who was a grandfather of Charlie Walton, was one of those who grub-staked a prospector for quite a spell, but no valuable minerals were ever found up thar. It appears to be a fact, however, that the Indians did hev a cache or vein of lead, where they went to get the makings for bullets, after the white men had put 'em up to the use of fire-arms & other devilitry.

Now, all along this range, from Glenford clear to beyond Tice, there is an old road traversing the southerly slopes of the mountains, and along which in earlier days there was to be found a score or more humble homes of the pioneers. They cleared up a patch of ground, wrassled with the stumps & rocks, laid up miles of stone walls, lived, labored & loved and then passed on. Today, we kin see the cellar foundations by peekin' through the briers where a lilac bush marks the site of a long abandoned habitation. Allus a lilac bush, & mebbe a bleeding heart or hollyhock clump—long after the human life has ceased to be. Kinder grips a feller where he lives, so to speak, to run acrost one of these old landmarks. Yessir.

Well, friends & fellow sufferers, we hev one more peak, called Toran's Hook, upon which is a flat rock where the redskins used to hold their dances & sech goings on. This reely overlooks the west basin, but as it is the last of the chain on the north shore, I allow it will fit in tolerable well right here. In the gap betwixt Tice and Torans there are several farms, some of which are owned by city folks who rusticate up thar in the hot season. They go to Shokan for their mail. E. C. Bostock, another Pennsylvanian and a brother-in-law of R. Pitcairn, has a farm of several hundred acres there. Others who sojourn on their places here in summer are Teunis Vanderbeet, a New York architect; Denis T. Lynch, author of several successful books, and feature writer for the Herald Tribune; Robert Peck, also on the Tribune staff, besides the regular inhabitants, the oldest of whom is Mrs. Jane Bogart, a lady who can give you the history of the mountain folks and section as far back as you want to know.

I hev made mention of all these pinters consarning the mountain side so as to give our reader a better idee of what they see whilst traveling along the dyke. Many a time when going along in a strange section I hev wondered what sech & sech a building, way off yonder agin the hill, was, and hev had to allow my curiosity to remain unsatisfied. As a matter of fact, we do miss a hull lot of interestin' sights by keeping to the broad highways, so called, 'stid of getting back into the hinterlands. I was impressed with this idee once while automobile drivin' west from Indianapolis. We had to detour for quite a piece and got back into some of the prettiest country ever, with big farms & cornfields & a mighty picturesque country ginerally. Folks whizz right by these leetle side roads and never learn of the people and country that they tap.

Now let's see how fur we've gone on this trip. . . By golly, we air right where we started, I do believe. No gas & oil consumed; no wear & tear on tires and vitals of car—nothing but one leg asleep and a crick in the neck. Good exercise for our optics too, with which we kivvered several miles of distance, with our party settin' pretty at the apex of a triangle, one of whose sides stretched from Glenford clear to the upper end of the west basin, this side of Boiceville. Our several pockets books air as fat as afore, too, the which in my pertick'ler case is as if a Holstein cow with the bloat had layed on it all night.

Well, sir, I will now bid you Good Night.

OLD TIMER.

The olive growing industry, founded 160 years ago in California, returned $25,000,000 to planters and packers this year.

Old Decoration

The fleur-de-lis, the conventionalized flower occurring so often in decoration, is an ancient emblem. France in 1179 had as its coat of arms a blue field sprinkled with fleur-de-lis. The Empress Theodora back in 527 A. D. had one in her crown.

§ 7. When private property shall be taken for any public use, the compensation to be made therefor, when such compensation is not made by the state, shall be ascertained by a jury, or by the supreme court with or without a jury, but not with a referee, or, in proceedings affecting property located within the city of New York and to be acquired by the city of New York, by a term of said court to consist of one or more justices thereof without a jury, or by not less than three commissioners appointed by a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law. Private roads may be opened in the manner to be prescribed by law; but in every case the necessity of the road and the amount of all damage to be sustained by the opening thereof shall be first determined by a jury of freeholders, and such amount, together with the expenses of the proceedings, shall be paid by the person to be benefited. The use of property for the drainage of swamp or agricultural lands is declared to be a public use and general laws may be passed permitting the owners or occupants of swamp or agricultural lands to construct and maintain for the drainage thereof, necessary drains, ditches and dykes upon the lands of others, under proper restrictions on making just compensation, and such compensation together with the cost of such drainage may be assessed, wholly or partly, against any property benefited thereby; but no special laws shall be enacted for such purposes.

The legislature may authorize cities and counties to take more land and property than is needed for actual construction in the laying out, widening, extending or relocating parks, public places, highways or streets; provided, however, that the additional land and property so authorized to be taken shall be no more than sufficient to form suitable building sites abutting on such park, public place, highway or street. After so much of the land and property has been appropriated for such park, public place, highway or street, as is needed therefor, the remainder may be sold or leased.

3,000,000 FAMILIES HELPED BY RED CROSS

Distress in All Areas Met by Giving Food, Clothing and Other Aid.

More than 3,000,000 families throughout the nation were given relief of various types by the American Red Cross in the past winter, to aid them in their distress caused by unemployment, disaster or other misfortune.

A major relief task, due to unemployment and other unusual conditions in the bituminous mining counties in twenty states, was met by the Red Cross chapters alone, or participating with other agencies. In these 143 counties, the Red Cross aided 90,000 families through giving groceries, school lunches, clothing, flour and other necessities to combat privation.

Flour, milled from government wheat turned over to the Red Cross by Congress, was given to 15,999,999 persons in the period from March 8 to June 30, the close of the fiscal year. Flour will continue to be given through the winter of 1932-33, and Red Cross chapters also will give cotton clothing, made from government cotton turned over to the Red Cross for distribution.

"The Red Cross faces the busiest winter since the days of the World War," Chairman John Barton Payne said. "It is organized in virtually every one of the 3,072 counties in the United States, and will co-operate with all agencies to meet distress wherever found. The flour has proved of great benefit, and the cotton clothing will be given wide distribution."

While carrying on nation-wide these unemployment and other relief measures, the Red Cross also was engaged in its regular peace-time activities in public health nursing, service to ex-service men and their families, teaching home hygiene, life saving and first aid. The Junior Red Cross, composed of almost 7,000,000 school children, also rallied to the support of the society's relief efforts, and the children aided others of their age in practical ways, formed sewing and food canning classes, and were of great assistance in chapter relief work.

While the wheat and cotton were given by the U. S. Government, no money was provided to pay for the necessary work entailed. The Red Cross will meet this expense of almost $500,000 from its treasury. Citizens can aid by joining as members of the local Red Cross chapter during the roll call from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

News from the World on Wheels

Walter P. Chrysler announced Thursday that the Plymouth Motor Corporation a division of Chrysler Motors, shortly would introduce a new six-cylinder car in the lowest price field. Details of engineering and design of the new car have been completed and production soon will be started on a scale expected to keep the Plymouth factories busy throughout the winter. The car, he said, will have the lowest price ever placed on a Chrysler Motors product. The automobile manufacturer withheld specifications pending shipment of the cars to dealers, at which time the new model will be shown simultaneously in cities throughout the United States. It will be featured, however, he said, by the use of the "floating power" principle of engine mounting, radically new fender and body lines and new characteristics of performance and economy, surpassing those of former Plymouth models.

Tennis an Ancient Game

The Romans had a game of tennis, which they called pia, but even before the Romans, Culen, an old Greek medical gentleman, had written of it to the effect that it was in his time a healthy exercise, and quite nice.

"Miss Tydol" Coming Here On Thursday

Rain caused the cancellation of the performance scheduled to have been given at the Kingston Airport at 2 o'clock this afternoon by "Miss Tydol", autogiro of the Tide Water Oil Company which is making a good will tour of New York and surrounding states.

Although today's air circus had to be called off, local enthusiasts of aviation will not be deprived of seeing an autogiro in action. "Miss Tydol" will come to the local flying field on Thursday to put on the same program that was slated for today. In addition to giving the exhibition of dead-stick landings and other features, the pilot of "Miss Tydol" will take prominent citizens on flights over Kingston as guests of the oil company.

Possessions and Worries

Only he who simplifies his possessions can really reduce his worries.—Bruce Barton.

At a recent annual meeting of the Mendelssohn Club a committee was appointed to draw up a resolution expressing the regret and sympathy of the club on the passing of Frank R. Powley, a charter member. The resolution, which was adopted at the regular meeting of the club last Friday night, follows:

Mr. Frank R. Powley was a charter member of the Kingston Mendelssohn Club and from the time of its organization, some 30 years ago, retained his membership and his interest as well in its activities until his recent death. Some years ago he relinquished active membership to become an associate member but in so doing did not lessen his deep concern for the welfare of the organization. Always genial, considerate, attentive and helpful at the club's weekly rehearsals, his counsel and criticism were welcomed by the members in musical matters. Possessing an excellent voice and enjoying to the fullest degree the pleasure of chorus work, his attendance at rehearsals, while an active member, was always assured and his presence and helpfulness were deeply appreciated by both members and conductor. As an associate, he always kept in close touch with all club activities and his final passing from us is keenly felt by all the club members and especially by those who were fortunate enough to have been associated with him in active membership.

We record this brief testimonial of our lasting regard for Frank Powley and our realization of the loss we have sustained, and also as an expression of our sincere sympathy for his widow in her bereavement.

It is therefore Resolved, That this record be made a part of the club minutes and that a copy be handed to Mrs. Powley and also published in the Kingston newspapers.

ROSENDALE GRANGE HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

Rosendale, Oct. 8—The regular meeting of the Rosendale Grange, 1501, was held in Zegel's Casino on Monday, when 104 members were present. The business meeting was a very interesting and instructive one.

The Literary program in charge of Lecturer Henry Mollenhauer was known as "Tillson Night," and members of this community took the different parts. The entire Grange was of the opinion that this was one of the finest programs it ever had. The participants and the lecturer were given a rising vote of thanks and hearty applause for their fine entertainment. The program follows:

Song—When You and I Were Young Maggie .... By Grange
Reading—Razors .... Miss Janet Conklin
Solo—Little Red Schoolhouse .... Jean Van Noedall
Talk—Corn Borer .. Walter Ortman
Piano solo—Glow Worm .... Miss Anna Urbelis
Monologue—Thirty Years Ago .... Mrs. Myrtle Demar
Your Election Ballot .... Henry Mollenhauer
Illustrated Song—Because he joined The Grange—Pianist, Mrs. Roy Clark; daughter, Miss Marion Clark; mother, Mrs. Arthur Merrihew; father, Fred Mertons.
Story of song "Rock of Ages" by Maryemma Christiana, piano accompanying.

The song was sung by Mrs. Nettie Rowe and Mrs. Jessie Gallagher. Pianist, Mrs. Eva Van Noedall. Closing song—Sweet and Low.

The next meeting of the Grange will be held Monday, October 24, at 8 o'clock. The lecturer has asked that everyone come in costume and make this a real Hallowe'en meeting and party. If you haven't any costume use your working clothes, says the lecturer, but come prepared to have a good time and tell every patron you see to come.

The refreshment committee will include Mrs. Rose Hasbrouck, Helen Smith, Miss Margie Molner, Mrs. Elizabeth Kusema, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stearns, Mr. and Mrs. P. O'Connor, Mrs. Henry Meyers, Mrs. Emry Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stadleman, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Auchmoody, Mrs. Lillian and Miss Lillian Bogans, Lewis Auchmoody and Patrick Reilly.

Lionesses Were Easy Marks for Deputy

Commerce, Mo., Oct. 18 (AP).—Deputy Sheriff Tom Hotchkiss, who killed two young lionesses marooned on a small island in the Mississippi river with a sub-machine gun admitted he didn't get much "kick" out of the shooting.

"Shucks," Hotchkiss said, "it wasn't any trouble at all to shoot 'em. No more than pottin' a squirrel out of the limb of a cottonwood. If this is lion huntin', then I'll stick to 'possums and coons, where a man can have some excitement."

Hotchkiss yesterday ended the long-planned "safari" of Denver Wright, St. Louis manufacturer, by killing the animals which Wright had released on a "towhead" island, near here.

Hotchkiss went to the island secretly in a motorboat, killed the lions by firing two shots at each of them, then removed the carcasses. Later Wright and his hunting party, which had left the island to give the two jungle beasts time to accustom themselves to their new freedom, returned and began beating the brush for the quarry. But they found no trace of the lions.

Nonplussed, Wright and the other hunters returned to Commerce. There they learned that Hotchkiss had killed the beasts an hour and a half after they had been released from the cage in which they were transported from St. Louis.

Wright protested angrily, but Hotchkiss contended he had done his official duty because the lions were a "menace to the peace and safety of the livestock and people of Southwest Missouri."

The two young lionesses, born in captivity and accustomed to life in a circus, were easy marks, Hotchkiss said. When he had located them in a willow thicket, he walked to within about ten fet of them, fired four times and the hunt was ended.

Better Milk

Will Help Him Make the Team
You may be a little fearful that the game is too rough. But at the same time you'll be proud and happy. Not so much in the mere fact that he has made the team. But in knowing that your work as a mother has been well done—that you have helped give your boy the sturdy, agile body and alert, active mind that he'll need so much in later years.
Good milk plays a big part in helping boys grow straight and strong. Naturally you want yours to have only the finest and purest obtainable. So we farmers of the Dairymen's League go even beyond Board of Health requirements to give you what you want.
48,000 farmers form the Dairymen's League. And each one of us takes a personal pride in the clean, sanitary methods used on our farms. We employ a staff of dairying experts to make regular inspections of our farms and herds, and to help us produce better milk. Our milk is tested again and again in its journey from our farms to you—and unless it meets Dairylea's own higher standards of purity and richness, it is immediately rejected.
If your milk comes from Dairylea farms, you can be certain that you are giving your children the finest, the purest, the best protected milk you can buy.

Your Children Need the Top Cream
Grown-ups drink a lot of coffee. Sometimes the top cream from the daily milk goes into the coffee cup, leaving the rest for the children. Particularly in cold weather, children need the rich butter fats that they get only from milk with the cream mixed in. Order separate cream for coffee. Your children's health is well worth the cost.

Tips on CONTRACT

Successful Psychic.

By TOM O'NEIL.

A bid of two or three no trump when a hand contains a long minor suit tops and little else, is regarded, under some conditions, by many players as the best of psychics or semi-psychics. It is incorporated as a principle of some bidding systems.

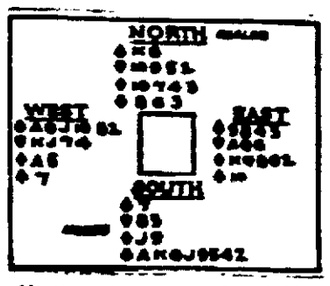
Often it deters a vulnerable side from entering an easy game contract or indeed bidding at all. The penalty to the non-vulnerable side is relatively slight at times and there have been psychics of this kind which have produced game.

At double dummy play probably any such psychic would be penalized heavily, but the adversaries are likely to make an original lead favorable to the declarer, and the first lead tells the story.

The bid usually is made third hand when the non-vulnerable dealer has passed. As such, it is a new Culbertsonian wrinkle. Some players regard Mrs. Dorothy Sims as the real inventor. She devised it as a method of scaring a vulnerable side which had opened the auction with a game-demand bid. "Barricade psychic" she termed it.

In one variation the no trump is offered after the enemy has bid a suit and when there is one sure stopper of that suit in the no trump bidder's hand. In this case there is game for the declarer if the first leader opens the suit bid. The defense is to open another suit.

At rubber bridge the bid has been found quite successful by Edwin A. Moree of New York. Here is a hand in which he won game at no trump without a stopper in three suits:



North and east passed and Moree offered three no trump, which west doubled, and all passed. Vulnerable west was afraid of overcalling with spades, since his partner had passed, and there seemed to be a prospect of a fair penalty in contrast to a hazardous bid.

West tried at once to set up the spade suit. Moree, lucky to find a spade stopper in dummy, took nine tricks, making game. A lead of a diamond or a heart by west could have caused Moree to be well set. West and east could have made game with ease in spades, hearts or diamonds. The moral would seem to be that against a dubious no trump bid it might be well to open some other suit than the one which ordinarily would be the best.

When doubled on such a no trump bid as Moree's, some players are inclined to bid the long minor. Moree has found it averages better to let the no trump double stand.

Egyptian Reckoning

In ancient Egypt chronology, the Sothic period was the period in which the year of 365 days circled in succession through all the seasons. The tropical year, determined as it was in Egypt by the heliacal rising of Sirius (Sothis), was almost exactly the Julian year of precisely 365¼ days (differing from the true solar year, which was 11 minutes less than this). The Sothic period was thus 1,461 years.

WOLFS DON'T CARRY PATIENTS IN HEARSE

Wolf Brothers, local funeral directors, have asked that The Freeman contradict a rumor about them using a hearse for an ambulance. In their letter of request they said:

"We have purchased from the Van Motor Car Company a Studebaker convertible sedan with a cot and equipment for the comfort of the patient, thus eliminating the fear that most patients have of riding in an ambulance which sometimes has the appearance of a hearse.

"We are not using an automobile hearse that is used for the transportation of the human dead and those who have died of contagious disease for an ambulance to convey patients to and from our local hospitals as the rumor has it.

"Trusting this will clear such talk and allow us to serve the public in the same manner we have for the past three years in a most satisfactory manner".

Cross Ancient Emblem

The cross, as a Christian religious symbol, is probably the most modern adaptation. For thousands of years before the Christian era the cross was of religious significance among widely separated peoples and in different ages. Its origin is lost in antiquity.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Tiger Shark". When Edward G. Robinson appears in a picture, past performances prove that the picture will have an abundance of excitement plus some superb acting. This talkie is no exception for it lives up to the Robinson standard in every way. In the role of the bragging, colorful Portuguese Mike, Mr. Robinson is given full opportunity of proving his versatility. It's a story of the sea, with some of the finest fishing scenes ever filmed. The play hasn't a dull moment, and Richard Arlen and Zita Johann are splendid in supporting roles.

Orpheum: "Reserved For Ladies" and "Hell Bound." The first feature is a gay, optimistic little comedy. Leslie Howard is the principal player in the cast. "Hell Bound" offers Leo Carillo, Lola Lane, and Lloyd Hughes in an old thriller.

Broadway: "Love Bound" and "Probation." A double feature billing. The first talkie features Jack Mulhall and Natalie Moorehead. The second play offers Sally Blane and John Darrow.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Dark Horse". A laugh riot that discusses present day politics, politicians, and all those things that make for an election success. Warren William as the campaign manager of a none too intelligent candidate played by Guy Kibbee contributes some excellent acting. Bette Davis is also in the cast.

Broadway: Same.

ROVER HAS A BAD COLD AND NIP HAS STRAYED

West Shokan, Oct. 18—Miss Ollie Burgher of West Shokan Heights reports that her pet dog, Rover, seems to be considerably under the weather with a bad cold which he contracted recently. Rover is ten years old and has proved an inseparable companion to the entire family.

The melodious notes of Frank Whittier's whistle can still be heard wafted over the chilly north winds. In vain he has searched the neighboring woods about Tuckaway Farm for his pet dog, "Nip", a nine months old Cocker Spaniel, which disappeared over a week ago. The dog, which is red and has white markings on its chest, wears the license number 45s827. Mr. Whittier would be very glad to learn of the whereabouts of this dog, as it has always proved a true friend to his little grandchildren, Nancy and Betty Guignet.

Escaped Prisoners Were in Kingston

Thomas Smith, a Brooklyn bandit, and Peter Williamson, a New York safe robber, who escaped late Saturday night from the Medium Security Prison at Wallkill, evidently drove as far as Kingston in the Pontiac car stolen from Elmore Tucker of Wallkill, for the car was found abandoned early Monday afternoon on Wall Street by the local police.

Half an hour after the men escaped from the prison they flagged the Tucker automobile on a dark highway, ordered him from the car, a Plymouth coupe, and sped south.

Mr. Tucker was notified of the theft of the car and he and Guard Herbert Roberts of the Wallkill prison were in Kingston Monday night when the car was turned over to Tucker.

Blood Pressure Is Now Normal

"Never Felt Better In My Life" Kansas Woman Asserts.

If you are fat and have high blood pressure read this letter from Mrs. E. S. B. of Dodge City, Kansas—then use your own judgment—it was written January 1, 1932.

"The reason I am taking Kruschen Salts is: I was overweight, I naturally was sluggish in every way. I had high blood pressure and was so nervous I did not enjoy myself. I could not sleep and day after day I spent in bed with headaches. I had tried everything I ever heard of to remove fat from my body and nothing did me any good.

"I read so much in the papers about Kruschen Salts but to myself it was like all the rest, but I finally decided to try it. And Sept. 20, 1931 I started taking Kruschen and dieting as you suggested.

"I have lost 20 lbs. and I can honestly say I never felt better in all my life. I sleep fine and my blood pressure is normal. My nerves are also better. I have recommended Kruschen Salts to lots of people and I know several are taking them with good results."

A jar of Kruschen Salts that costs but a trifle lasts 4 weeks and can be obtained at McBride Drug Stores or any drug store in the world.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, Oct. 18.—Although Sunday was inclined to be dreary, the sky being well clouded over and the atmosphere damp and hazy, the attendance at the Sunday school session did not fall below the normal average. The opening musical selection, "Glory To His Name," was followed by a prayer offered by Daniel Sampson of Shokan. The next selection, "Abide With Me," preceded the discussion of the lesson topic, "The Home and The Coming Generation." Mr. Sampson very kindly consented to act as leader, and presented some excellent thoughts which he cleverly interwove with the subject. The final hymn was "Jesus Is Calling Today." Next Sunday's topic will be a timely one, "Problems of The Modern Home."

Reviewing briefly local events of twenty years ago for the week of October 18, generally fair and warm weather is noted. The first frost that season had come during the night of October 1. The work of building the three Bushkill bridges by Harrison and Barton, contractors, was in full swing. On the morning of the 15th, Mrs. Abram B. Molyneaux died at Kingston. She was formerly Miss Nellie Every of Shokan. On the evening of the 11th it is noted that ex-President Theodore Roosevelt had been shot (wounded) while on his speaking tour for re-election. There was a heavy frost on the morning of Saturday, October 19. The next day, Sunday, October 20, is recorded as a glorious, bright, clear, day. Simply grand. It was while the family of D. N. Mathews was at dinner early that sunny afternoon that their fine residence in the old village took fire on the tinder-dry roof from the chimney and burned over their heads, gaining much headway before the fire was discovered. Only such articles as could be gathered up quickly were saved.

On Sunday afternoon, Everett Gibson of Oneonta, accompanied by his mother and sister, visited Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow while enroute to New York city by automobile.

469 names were enrolled in the first day's registration held Saturday in election district No. 2, at Colange's Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Winkler of Staten Island spent the week-end at their bungalow in Watson Hollow. Mr. and Mrs. Winkler are members of the colony located on the Gene Kerr farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Samson of Shokan called on Mrs. Watson Bishop on West Shokan Heights on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Edda Gessner of Kingston spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gessner of Olive Bridge.

Raymond Miller of Brodhead Heights is suffering from a severe cold and has been unable to work for a few days.

On Thursday Elwyn C. Davis completed his service as grand juror at the county seat.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barber of Main street entertained visitors on Sunday.

Eugene Cashdollar and Arnold Shultis of Brodhead spent Saturday picking wintergreen berries and gathering nuts at West Shokan Heights.

On Sunday Miss Evelyn Gard of New Jersey, a guest at the Watson Hollow Inn, made a trip to the summit of High Point, under the leadership of an expert local woodsman. Mountain climbing is particularly invigorating at this season, for the air is cool and crisp. The trees are just a rage of colors and are at their best at this writing. Within a few weeks these beautiful autumn leaves will become a winter blanket for the ground.

Judge Lester S. Davis delivered a load of apples from the Watson Hollow Inn to the Teller residence on Fair street at Kingston.

Johnnie Nagle has returned to his summer home, after spending a few weks in New York city.

Carl Anstatz and Miss Zimmerman of North Main Street Heights made a trip to New York city over the week-end to purchase furniture for their new home, which is to be completed soon by our local contractor and builder, Albert North. The plumbing is being done by Edwin Gessner, the contractor and builder of Olive Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Weidner of North Main street visited her aunt, who resides on the Hurley road, on Sunday afternoon.

Herschel Geyer was a caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Main street on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Constable and family visited her mother, Mrs. Lottie Campbell, on Sunday afternoon at High Point.

Ernie Constable, versatile musician, farmer and all-around handy man of West Shokan Heights, is at present and in conjunction with his home work, assisting Joe Winkler, who is busy nearly day and night with the rush of custom cider making.

Roy Ransom of High Falls, who has recently taken up circulation work for the Ulster County News, canvassed this locality last week.

Samuel Cassalina completed picking apples at the Watson Hollow Inn on Friday. The harvest was exceedingly large this year.

Van Crispell and son, Kermit, of Brodhead Heights, were recent shoppers at Kingston.

Mrs. Wilson Hamilton of Brodhead was a caller at West Shokan Heights on Wednesday.

On Friday Charles Lacht of North Main Street Heights, assisted Mrs. Watson Bishop dig up geraniums, gladioli and dahlia bulbs.

Mrs. Addie Kelder of West Shokan Heights is suffering from an infected finger. She is receiving medical attention from Dr. Gross of Phoenicia.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Jones of West Shokan Heights are entertaining friends from the city.

Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow and Shepard Bell of Main street were callers at West Shokan Heights on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vogt of Oneonta spent a few days during the week at the home of her mother, Mrs. Fred L. Weidner, of North Main street.

Mrs. Louise Winchell of Kingston is spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Watson Bishop of West Shokan Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Weidner of North Main street were brief callers on friends at West Shokan Heights on Saturday afternoon.

On Wednesday evening practically everything was destroyed by the killing frost which swept the Esopus Valley. The low temperature was accompanied by high winds throughout the day which did a fine job threshing the hickory trees. On Thursday morning several walnut pickers were seen along the main highway. It seems that everyone who is interested in gathering nuts for the winter has learned the truthfulness of the old adage, "The early bird catches the worm."

Harold Hillary, accompanied by a boy friend from Hempstead, Long Island, spent the week-end at the family estate on the Watson Hollow Roadway. On Saturday evening, they in company with the Misses Dorothy and Mildred Shultis of Lake Hill, attended the dance held at the Golden Rule Inn. On Sunday afternoon they called on Donald Bishop, who spent the week-end with his grandmother, Mrs. Watson Bishop.

Free bus trips to the new development at Forrest Hills, Long Island, are claiming the attention of many possible investors in the enterprise about Kingston and points surrounding. During the summer hundreds have enjoyed these trips made three times weekly. Among the thirty odd passengers comprising the Ulster county pilgrimage on Friday's trip, was one of Olive's leading business men, Jesse Shurter, of Samsonville.

An enjoyable evening is planned for the Thursday, October 20, session of Olive Rebekah Lodge, No. 470, which will be the occasion of installing of officers for the ensuing year.

Edward Avery of Maple Dell is suffering from a badly affliction of grievous boils, by which his general program of activities is considerably hampered.

Mr. and Mrs. James Burgher of Maple Dell left during the past week for their annual and well earned vacation with friends and relatives along the border tier and over in Pennsylvania in the vicinity of Bradford.

Alonzo Burgher is assisting Edward Avery in the important matter of husking the Maple Dell corn crop.

On Sunday a family group consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schryver of Port Ewen and their sons, Hawley and Harry, were callers at West Shokan Heights.

Preliminary work in the putting in of a fill at the bottom of Mike Dwyer's hill opposite the Davis Bishop driveway was begun Monday morning under direction of Commissioner William Jordan.

The Watson Hollow Inn has closed following a very successful season, and it is reported that Mr. and Mrs. Teller are to leave shortly on a trip to California.

The west basin of the reservoir is again nearing its high water levels due to the heavy inflow from the Schoharie reservoir and tributary mountain streams.

Mart Echert of Watson Hollow is a frequent caller at the old homestead at West Shokan Heights.

The electric service line has been extended from the North Main Street terminal over the hill another 2,000 feet for a hook-up with the new Carl Anstatz residence. It is also reported that the Lacht and Snoeckel cottages adjacent will be wired shortly for the same purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil C. Gordon and family of Brodhead spent Sunday with relatives in Kingston.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry L. Bibby of Kingston were recent visitors at their Glenerby estate near Watson Hollow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross W. Lynn failed to make their usual visit this week-end at their Traver Hollow estate on account of Mr. Lynn's absence on a business trip to Washington, D. C.

The clean-up job on the Will Morrison place near Traver Hollow has been discontinued. Assessor Paul James of Shokan with two assistants were employed at the work, which is noted as a decided improvement to the property from the boulevard.

Former Commissioner and Mrs. Egbert Beiss of Watson Hollow were among recent Kingston business callers.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—The stock market appeared somewhat refreshed today after two sessions of quiet drifting, and prices pushed forward with some vigor in the earlier hours.

The advance was checked by early afternoon, and extreme gains of 1 to 4 points were reduced by from fractions to a point, but trading slackened on the decline, as traders showed little inclination to sell.

Rails showed notable strength, with extreme gains of 2 to 3 points appearing in New York Central, Union Pacific, and Santa Fe, and advances of 1 point or more appearing throughout the group. Allied Chemical registered an extreme gain of 4 points, and issues up 2 to 3 among the industrials and utilities included American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, U. S. Steel, Case, International Harvester, American Can, Johns Manville, Westinghouse, and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit. Merchandising issues also received more attention than they had for some time, with numerous advances of a point or so being recorded in that group.

A sharp sag in the British pound sterling, attributed in Wall Street to withdrawal of support by the Bank of England, pulled Europe's gold currencies generally lower and brought a fresh reassertion of the strength of the dollar. European bear speculators in dollars exchange, according to gossip in international banking circles, appear to have taken considerable punishment in the past fortnight.

The first of the principal railroads to report for September was Union Pacific, which showed net operating income of $3,266,184, a relatively moderate recession from the $3,918,381 reported for that month of last year. Further evidence of the improvement in the oil industry appeared in the earnings statement of Atlantic Refining for the first nine months, showing net of $1.58 a share, against a substantial deficit in the like period of last year.

Quotations given by Parker, McElroy & Co., members, N. Y. Stock Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York City; branch office, Stuyvesant Hotel.

Sharpe, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Sharpe, his sister, Agnes, and brother, Raymond, all of Clintondale. One sister, Nora, died about two years ago. He was accompanied by a man from Peekskill. They had been to New York city, where they had gone to get parts for a gas shovel, which they were operating at Walton for a contractor from Poughkeepsie. Both bodies were severely burned, almost beyond recognition. The sympathy of the whole community is extended to the bereaved wife and parents.

PUNTS and PASSES

(By The Associated Press)

Pittsburgh—Over confidence is the foe upon which Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh coach, is concentrating this week. He fears his team, after its victory over Army, will not take Ohio State seriously enough. "The Buckeyes are tough and they're ready to break loose and go places," Sutherland warns.

Philadelphia—It's the same story at Penn where Harvard Harman has gone bullish on Lehigh. "They always fight," he said of the Engineers. "Four of their best men have been out but they will play against us."

Providence, R. I.—A full holiday was the reward Tuss McLaughry gave his Brown regulars for their victory over Yale but the poor scrubs worked harder than ever. McLaughry is worried about the scarcity of reserves and is busily drilling the scrubs in the hope of locating a few replacements.

Princeton, N. J.—"Fritz" Crisler probably has few worries any more about Princeton's defense but he is frankly disappointed over the Tigers' lack of scoring punch. Most of his work this week will be directed toward the development of an attack that will beat Army.

West Point, N. Y.—In view of Yale's poor showing so far this season, Army's coaches might not be greatly concerned over Saturday's game except for the fact that the Cadets were badly battered in the sensational game with Pitt. Lincoln and Armstrong, regular tackles, were unable to report for practice yesterday and Jablonsky suffered a severe gash in his head. Fields and Vidal were excused from work to give them a chance to recover from bruises.

New Haven, Conn.—The latest shift in Yale's lineup affected the two end positions. Gil Wright, a letterman two years ago, was sent in to replace the injured Felix Hughes, and John Overall, a sophomore, was substituted for Kimball.

New Brunswick, N. J.—Rutgers' hopes of making a good showing against undefeated Holy Cross rose with the return to the squad of Hec Mattia, veteran guard, who has been on the injured list for two weeks.

Denials Made of Baseball Trade

New York, Oct. 18 (AP).—That half million dollar baseball trade, rumored up Boston way, had drawn a string of denials from every interested party today and left the seven players, said to be involved, exactly where they were before the report was published.

The rumor, as printed in a Boston evening paper, said the deal, still in the making, involved four National League clubs—the Chicago Cubs, Boston Braves, Cincinnati Reds and New York Giants.

Figuring in the impending four-cornered swap, the paper said, were Hazen Cuyler, Pat Malone and Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, Frank Hogan and Freddy Lindstrom of the Giants, Wally Berger of the Braves and Floyd (Babe) Herman of the Reds. Eventually, the report said, Berger and Herman would land with the Giants, Lindstrom and Hogan with the Cubs, Cuyler and Hartnett with the Braves, and Malone with the Reds.

All four clubs wasted no time in making denials that any such involved trade was in the making. All said they were in the market for players to strengthen weak spots, as they always are, but added they knew nothing of any spectacular four-cornered player exchange.

Spencer's Quintet Ready For Season

The basketball team of Spencer's Business School has organized for the season and is ready to meet any and all teams of this vicinity. Principal Kelly has appointed Mike Carpino manager of the quintet.

Spencer players are as follows: Forwards—Fritz Planthaber, high school varsity man in 1928; Emil Bock and Mike Carpino, of Rambler fame. Center—Hank Krom, considered one of the best pivot men in these parts. Guards—Hermie Kreppel, of last year's Hebrew-Americans, Walt Schussler and John Houghtaling, who saw action last winter with the Redeemers and Ramblers.

Two games have been booked for the business school quintet, both with high schools. November 22, the team will play at Margaretville High School and next with Jeffersonville High.

New uniforms have been ordered, the colors of which will be blue and white.

Freshmen Want Stagg Retained

Members of the freshmen football team at Chicago University want Amos Alonzo Stagg, 70-year-old coach, retained as director of football at the school and have circulated petitions asking that he be re-engaged for next season. Under a rule at the college, Stagg is required to resign because of his age. However, the veteran may be rehired as head football coach even if he retires from his job on the faculty as Professor of Physical Education.

Bill Terry Day In Memphis, Tenn.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 18 (AP).—Today was "Bill Terry Day" in Memphis and everybody from the mayor on down had nice things to say about the home town boy who became manager of the New York Giants.

Civic leaders figure "Memphis Bill" is quite an asset to the community so they are celebrating in his honor. Observance of "Bill Terry Day" was ordered by Mayor Watkins Overton, the Chamber of Commerce and everyone else who had anything to do with proclamations.

The Rotary Club, forsaking its usual program, turned over its luncheon meeting to honor the Memphis boy, whose batting had made him a national sports figure even before his recent elevation to manager of the Giants.

CHOCOLATE TO BOX MEXICAN FEATHERWEIGHT.

Madison Square Garden has procured the signature of Kid Chocolate, sensational Cuban boxer, to meet Baby Arizmende, flashy west coast Mexican, or Nel Tarleton, European featherweight leader, in a match on November 18 or 25. Matchmaker James J. Johnston wants Chocolate to meet the Mexican first. The winner of that match would get a shot at Tarleton, who holds a decision over Tommy Paul, N. B. A. featherweight champion.

Dartmouth Will Give Harvard Test

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Dartmouth Indians should provide the answer to one of the questions just now vexing eastern football critics: Just how strong is Harvard?

On the basis of the Crimson's performances against three outclassed opponents, it would seem that Eddie Casey has developed a powerful machine at Harvard this year, one of the best in the east. But the game with Dartmouth this week should provide a more satisfactory gauge for measuring the Crimson's real strength.

Opening with a 66-0 rout of Buffalo, Harvard has trounced New Hampshire, 40-0, and Penn State, 46-13, a total of 152 points in three games. The Crimson's average of more than 50 points a game is the highest in the east but the competition has been woefully weak.

Fourteen men have shared in Harvard's scoring so far with Jack Crickard's 30 points leading all the rest. Grady and Nevin have scored three touchdowns apiece and Locke, Dean and Sherman two each.

Moisture

It seems almost impossible, yet it is a fact, that a large sunflower plant will give off from its leaves three pints of water in one day.

Army Triple Threat Man

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 18—At the William and Mary game on October 29, Army's next home gridiron contest, "Ken" Fields will again display his football wares. His powerful, driving attack, accurate passes and fine punting make him the corner stone of the Army team. In the game against the "Golden Panthers" of Pittsburgh, Fields made one of the touchdowns on a wide end run outdistancing the fast Reider to the final chalk line. The other touchdown came as a result of Fields fine passing coupled with a brilliant run.

Athlete and Scholar

Fields, in addition to his outstanding athletic activities, has won all the military and academic honors West Point can bestow on a Cadet. Since his Plebe year, Feld has worn the gold stars of a distinguished Cadet, signifying that his marks in every subject were 92 per cent or better. This year he stands number one academically in the Senior Class.

Last June, this outstanding Cadet was appointed 1st Captain or Regimental Commander of the 1928 Cadets in the Corps. During the football season when the Corps attends big games, it would be Field's duty to lead the grey clad regiment into the Stadium. However, he is forced to delegate this duty to his second in command during this season.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

The Dizzy Dean of the gridirons, if our scouts report the situation accurately, seems to have bobbed up at Fordham in the peppery person of Freddie Harlow, sophomore quarterback and a loud one.

He's from New England, obtaining his prep football training at Hebron Academy. He's full of chatter, whether there are newspapermen around the Fordham premises or not. As Harry Nash of the New York Evening Post related one typical incident, Harlow inquired whether the iron major, Frank Cavanaugh, had any objections to catching punts one-handed and then expanded:

"Well, you see, Babe Ruth is about through and New York must have a hero. And that hero is going to be Freddie Harlow, the old Hebron Academy kid himself. Imagine me out there in a Fordham-N. Y. U. game with 75,000 spectators yelling. A punt comes down my alley and everyone in the stands starts to yell 'Attaboy, Freddie.'

"Now the worst thing a fellow can do is high-hat his public. They'll be up there waving at me. So I'll have to catch the punt with my left hand and wave back at them with my right. You don't think that will make the coach sore, do you?"

Hey, Where's Ade?

Purdue's Boilermakers make their first appearance in the Big Town October 29 against the de-emphasized New York University Violets. The only thing that the publicity connected therewith has failed to produce so far is a sonnet in slang by Purdue's well known alumnus, George Ade. By the end of the month there won't be a single thing left but the football game itself.

N. Y. U., of course, has no idea of being a set-up for any gridiron party this year, even though the high-powered methods of Chick Meehan's regime have largely disappeared. The material is still Grade-A, rugged and experienced, and will be well prepared by Howard Cann for the reception of the strong Big Ten aggregation from Lafayette, Indiana.

Panthers Ready To Spring.

If the University of Pittsburgh doesn't turn in one of the best team records of the 1932 gridiron campaign, those who have seen the Panthers in their early games will be considerably surprised, not to say shocked.

The only blot on the 1931 Pitt record was the defeat by Notre Dame, which the Panthers hope to avenge on their own grounds October 29. Meanwhile they face a counter-attack from the Army, which has the memory of a 26-0 lacing administered to the Cadets at Pittsburgh last season.

Ohio State, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Carnegie and Stanford complete Pitt's program. It is one of the stiffest in the country and well calculated to emphasize Panther claims to a national championship, if the team comes through unbeaten.

Rodriguez takes on several sparmates every afternoon and in his workouts looks in trim for his match which is scheduled for Saturday night, October 22, at Wood Ridge Grove, Brooklyn.

Argentine Poloist Injured

Alfredo Harrington, Argentine polo player, was thrown from his pony Sunday and suffered a broken leg. His injury has lowered the chances of the Argentine International polo squad of turning back the United States in the Argentine open and international series next month.

Middletown Players Declared Ineligible

The matter of players' eligibility, which pops up every now and then in the circles of the DUSO League, is on again. "Cappy" Capporella and Manager Wagner have been declared ineligible by teams of the league. It so happens that Coach G. Warren Kias of Kingston High has issued Cappozella's name, who plays center for the Middies, as one to be barred from play and the other, Mack Wagner, Middletown's left halfback, has been entered by Port Jervis.

This question arose about two weeks ago and little headway has been made on the problem. However, Coach Kias has been working diligently on the case, building up a line of defense along with that of Port Jervis. Arrangements have been made, at last, for a meeting of the members of the DUSO League Council in Newburgh, Wednesday. That is, A. W. Longman, superintendent of the Newburgh schools and president of the DUSO League, told Superintendent B. C. Van Ingen of the local schools, yesterday, that he would immediately telegraph the members of the council at the conclusion of his phone talk with the local superintendent.

So nothing official as to the final arrangements has been received but the local representatives feel sure that the meeting will be held, since the matter must be settled by Saturday, when Kingston is scheduled to play Middletown High at the latter's gridiron. Still Kias said the other afternoon that he would refuse to play if Cappozella and Wagner were not ousted.

"Cappy" Cappozella has been declared ineligible by Kingston because he has already played four years of football and this is his fifth. The rules of the DUSO League will only allow a player to be of service to his school for four years in one sport and then he must be under 20 years of age.

That swings us into the case of Mack Wagner. It was discovered, after an investigation by the coach of Port Jervis, that Wagner was too old to play football in the DUSO League. His proof is official or legal, because Wagner was born in Port Jervis and his birth record is in the books of the Board of Health of that city.

Regardless of the proof, Middletown officials stand rigidly and deny these facts. In the case of Cappozella, the proof of his playing five years lies in the newspapers of the Hudson Valley. Three papers have the same starting lineup, including Cappozella's name, in the game against Kingston on October 27, 1928. Yet E. H. Burdick, superintendent of the Middletown schools, says that the papers are wrong and that Wagner isn't 20 years old.

The Port Jervis Union-Gazette, the Kingston Daily Freeman and the Middletown Times Herald, all have the same starting lineup. As for the Newburgh News, an inquiry as to their record has not been made, but undoubtedly their papers hold the same. According to this it will be hard denying such outstanding facts. Neverthless, the boys are not ousted yet and a long discussion will probably be held before they are.

This is the second time Middletown has pulled a stunt of this sort. Two years ago a boy by the name of Dopson, a fine backfield man that Coach Hughes hated to part with, continued to play although his record was on the wrong end of the requirement of the DUSO League. The question was not brought on the mat until after Middletown had won two games, one from Kingston and the other from Newburgh. The meeting to settle the affair was called at Kingston, the late Dr. Myron J. Michael, then being president of the DUSO League. Middletown put up a fight as it usually does, and asked for a compromise. It was decided that the Middies would be awarded the two games won and that Dopson could play in no future games. Kingston and Newburgh got nothing out of the compromise, and to top it all off Middletown won the DUSO League that year.

Cannoneers Shoot Up Detail Team, 8-2

With a clearer eye on the sights and a steadier hand on the lanyard, the Cannoneers shot the Detail all to pieces last night at the armory in the "A" Battery Indoor Baseball League by the score of 8-2. In the first game between these two teams the Cannoneers claim they were just practicing, with the result that they lost the game, but last night they meant business from the beginning. By making two runs in the first inning the Cannoneers secured a lead which they maintained to the end. Both pitchers kept things well under control, A. Bush striking out six Cannoneers and C. Costello, five of the Detail. Costello let down once and passed a man but it was not enough to make up the 6-run lead of the Cannoneers. C. Costello and Shultis hammered out a home-run apiece and Pitcher Bush made one for the opposition. Scism made a spectacular double play unassisted.

The score follows:

Cannoneers	2	0	0	1	2	2	1	0	x	—8

Batteries: Detail—A. Bush and Sass. Cannoneers—Costello and Shultis.

The league standing to date is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Detail	2	1	.667
Drivers	1	1	.500
Cannoneers	1	2	.333

It was announced last night by Lieutenant Byrne, battery commander, that the winning team and all the men in that department of the battery would be treated to a dinner about December 1 when the season will end.

Maxie For Movies Until Sharkey Bout

Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion of the world, will do no fighting this winter, preferring to strut about the moving picture lots of Hollywood instead. This announcement was made yesterday by his manager, Joe Jacobs, as he collected $25,000 due Maxie on the Walker scrap purse of $55,000. The money was held up until a release was given last Thursday by Judge Edward J. McGurk, who denied a motion by attorneys for Primo Carnera to restrain Madison Square Garden from paying Schmeling.

Jacobs said Schmeling would take up making movies instead of accepting a proposal from Jack Doyle, Los Angeles matchmaker, to box Max Baer in the west coast city in February. He also turned down an offer to box Baer in Chicago next June, contemplating another bout then with Jack Sharkey, who stripped him of his heavyweight title.

Artillery Basketball To Start Wednesday

Manager Blake of "A" Battery, 156th F. A., basketball team has issued a call for practice for Wednesday night at the Armory. All of last year's team will be present to form a nucleus for an outfit that should win the Regimental League championship. Last year "A" Battery was runner-up for the honors. That team consisted of "Stan" Colvin, "Ran" Kieffer, who was high scorer, "Chet" Kieffer, "Coke" Costelloft "Spike" Coons, Lewis, and Woinoski. However, there is plenty of material to make a stiff fight for every position on the team.

According to present plans a coach will be engaged to aid in forming and drilling the team, and with the experience of older men, "A" Battery is out to win the regimental championship.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—(State Dept. of Agriculture and Markets.—The following quotations represent prices on sales by commission merchants and other original receivers on the New York city downtown wholesale district up to 8 p. m.

Receipts of state apples were moderate and price fluctuations on attractive quality fruit were small. Lake Champlain, barreled, fancy 2½ inch McIntosh wholesaled at $4 and No. 1, 2½ inch at $3. Western New York McIntosh, No. 1, 2½ inch brought $1.12½-$1.25 for the best.

The country's apple production, according to October condition, is placed at 133,824,000 bushels, a decline of about 3 per cent from the September forecast. Production indicated on October 1, is approximately two-thirds of the 1931 crop. The greatest declines from a month ago took place in Virginia, and in Washington. Cullage in order to meet grade requirements will run heavy in the entire northwest, due to late worm infestation.

Cabbage was inactive. Bulk consignments of Danish white jobbed out on ton basis from $12 to $15.

White potato supplies were moderate. Trading was light. Values remained unchanged. Green Mountain potatoes in bulk of 180 pounds, No. 1, from Long Island jobbed out at $1.75 to $1.80 and from Maine $1.65-$1.70.

The market was slightly weaker on state pears, plums, prunes and quinces. Grapes, onions and carrots showed no decided changes. Mushrooms ruled weak. Lettuce and tomatoes of fine quality closed slightly stronger because of limited offerings.

Celery unloadings were moderate and the undertone of the market was slightly weaker. Stock in the rough, packed in two-thirds crate jobbed out at $1-$1.25.

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED by Will L. Lindhorst

HOW TO UPSET CARD THAT CAN'T BE BLOWN OVER

Take a business card, bend two diagonally opposite corners, and lay the card on a table so it rests on these corners. Then ask some one to try to blow it over. When the person blows at the card, it will rise from the table but always settle back on the two bended corners. After several attempts have failed, stand in front of the card, swing your arms inward and cup your hands together. Do this a few inches from the card and the puff of air from the cupped hands will turn the card over. Of course, the card must be placed on the table so that it leans away from you, allowing space beneath for the puff of air to enter.

"EASY MONEY" MARKET IS TOXIC FOR BONDS

New York, Oct. 18 (AP).—Leading investment bankers are studying closely the present "easy" money market because of the effect it may logically have upon prices of high grade bonds.

Normally, easy money provides a healthful tonic for bond prices. For this reason bankers are keeping close watch on the nation's money reservoir which in recent months has been filling up rather rapidly. Last week, interest rates in New York were reduced, because of the mounting abundance of idle funds, to the lowest levels for some classes of short-term loans since 1908. The call loan rate eased off to 1 per cent, equalling the low point established in 1908.

Daniel Sampson of Shokan will conduct the meeting. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone who is desirous of attending.
